INDIAN SCHOOLS—MOHAWK RE-

SERVE.

The Report of the Minister of Education for 1885 contains the following report by

Inspector Johnston on the Indian Schools of the Tyrone and Reserve.

The four schools on the Reserve were examined by me twice during the year in connection with the Indian Agent, Mr. James

Hill. Western Mohawk School was inspected on the forenoon of June 29th.

There were 18 children present; one of attention good; there were seven in first class, 7 in second, and 4 in third; they were examined in reading, spelling, writing, arithmetic and geography. Mrs. Clara, the teacher is a Mohawk, and formerly taught the Mission School in the north-eastern part of the Reserve; she has been a faithful and efficient teacher, but through ill health

she intends to give up at Midsummer

this school. The result of the examination of the forenoon of October 27th in the presence of the Agent. There were 14 present;

good order and attention; the house clean and the scholars comfortable and well clothed. There were four in part first, and in all the subjects they acquitted themselves fairly; one in part second, five in second and four in third. They were examined in reading, spelling, writing, arithmetic, geography, language and mental

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Denis McCarthy, who lived at Mr.

John McAuley's on the 4th con., met with a serious accident last Saturday. He was chopping wood when something or another arrested his attention. The axe glanced and he almost cut off the big toe of his right the wound, and it is hoped he will soon be

A promising young man from the neighbor-

TRAGIC CAWNPORE.

An Indian City of Terrible Mutiny Memories.

The Rev. T. Edward Light, a Canadian missionary writing from Faizpore, N. W. T. India, in January last to the Heartford Express, says: "When I was in India, I was a traveler Bayard Taylor visited India some thirty years ago he wrote as follows of Cawnpore: 'A place that I thought it contained nothing whatever to interest the traveler.' Could he have projected his vision into the future, five years he would have seen events transpiring, which have served to give his 'sleepy' old place a melancholy interest such as belongs to no other town in India."

"Well," the same of the most cold-blooded massacre perpetrated during the mutiny of 1857, its standing monument of gentle innocence suffering at the hand of treacherous cruelty."

Cawnpore is a city of considerable commercial importance and stands on the Ganges about eighty miles from here. It has become a great changing mart to which the produce of the Ganges is sent to be sold and distributed to Calcutta and Bombay.

THE TRAGIC INTEREST

of the city is the one I wish to speak of specially. Here is the story of the mutiny. There was no fort. Sir Hugh Wheeler was in command, had a strong body of native infantry, a slender European force and a large body of English residents. The treasury was rich, the defense small and the human bond, Nana Sahib, was not blind to the fact. The British, the son of the late Peshwa of the Marathas, being illegitimate, he was denied the pension otherwise due from the British government, and therefore, he hated the British, hate, although outwardly a warm friend. Sir Hugh Wheeler anticipated trouble, and prepared himself by the construction of an entrenchment, and named it with a few guns. He was not mistaken, for on the 5th of June, four native regiments revolted, and the British, Nana Sahib, threw off the mask by declaring the revolt. They made for an entrenchment, and about the middle of the next day a pound shot was fired, and the British, as the signal of deadly fire. "The shrieks of women and children," says the historian, "mingled with the horrid din of war, were heartrending never did earth witness so horrid a siege as that of this feeble garrison in their scanty shelter under the scorching heat of an oriental June sky." "Never since war began," says Mr. Keble, "never in the brave days of old, when women gave their hair for brave strings, has the world seen a fiercer and more desperate than in the suffering and death of those noble wives and daughters of the heroes of Cawnpore." The came on some to the midst of all this dread discomfort and painful publicity. Others had babies growing from them, and the soldier shot of the enemy. Day by day the little garrison diminished, shot down by cannon or struck by the enemy's rays. One hundred fugitives from Faizpore, escaping by boat were captured, their hands tied behind, and shot away from the guns of the blood-thirsty rebels. On the first day of the siege a wretched half-clothed woman with a child at her breast, was lifted over the rampart and recognized as the wife of a Cawnpore merchant. Nana had given her a letter to the besieged, in which he promised safe passage to Allahabad to all who would lay down their arms. The remnant of the besieged hesitated for a time, but they had borne all they could bear, and their provisions were giving out and the rainy season was upon them. They were offered the terms, and on the morning of the 27th, the procession started for the river. Sixteen elephants and eighty palanquins composed the van and at 9 a. m. all embarked. Then followed the most brutal and fiendish massacre that history records. The whole back of the British was with soldiers in ambush, and when the signal was given they opened fire on the boats which being overcrowded were stranded in the shallow waters. The scene that followed, says one of the two survivors of the wreck, "beggars description." Those who could swim, were thrown into the water and swam the river. Out of twelve hundred, ten were killed in the water and one wounded. Meanwhile Nana Sahib was proclaimed Peshwa of the Marathas and two hundred hostages were massacred. They were first subjected to all the insult and degradation which a depraved mind could concoct and then beheaded. Only one misery these brave ones did not suffer—dishonor, refusing even freedom at the expense of entering the harem of Nana. The next day, however, looked Nana in the battle of Cawnpore. A British officer writes, "I am not exaggerating when I say that the roles of my boots were more than covered with the blood of these fair ones. Portions of collars, dresses and hats, saturated with blood lay scattered around, whilst in the sword cuts on the pillars of the room, long tresses of hair were sticking carried by the edge of a weapon. No wonder was it that the British soldiers divided among them the flowing locks. Nana poor murdered girl and worse that for every hair."

A REPTILIOUS DIE.

All the rebel Sepoys and troopers who were captured were tried by a drum head court martial and hanged. But hanging was not enough for such a crime as it was and accompanied by shame and degradation. The wretches were made to clean away the blood of their victims, a thing peculiarly odious to a Hindu. What became of Nana Sahib is a mystery. Several times he was supposed to have been found but extermination proved it false. Let us return to the wall. "Nothing is painful here but its memories. It is holy ground which poor hands have converted into a beautiful park with flowers, weeping willows, and consecrated as a shrine of martyrdom. None but Europeans are permitted to pass freely. Only by special permission can the great grounds be entered, and he must not even then approach the wall enclosure. Over the sacred spot is a figure in marble to represent Tipu Sultan, the hands and head slightly bent; Under it is the inscription, 'Sacred to the memory of a great company of Christian people, who were cruelly murdered by order of Nana Daudpote of Uthoor, and near the dying with the dead, into the well below. No games or amusements are allowed and carriages must go at a walking pace within the park limits. This, in brief, is the story of Cawnpore, a name that afterwards became the watchword of the siege Delhi, and was whispered in the ear of every traitor who paid with his life the penalty of bloody crime.—Remember Cawnpore."

MANGED WHILE UNCONSCIOUS

Further Particulars of the Fatal Occurrence.

A special despatch from New Orleans gives the following additional particulars of the hanging of Ford and Murphy, who were swung into eternity while in unconscious state from the effects of belladonna which they had taken.—

The men appeared to be sleeping soundly at 7:30 a. m., when efforts to arouse them revealed their condition. They were lying on their backs. Ford was bathing very lightly while Murphy appeared to be sleeping calmly. Efforts to arouse Ford were unavailing, but Murphy was aroused and when asked how he felt replied, "very bad." A tremor passed over him and he again sank into unconsciousness. Two pieces of paper were found in the cell, which were found to contain belladonna. In view of the fact that the condemned man had attempted suicide, the rules of the California penitentiary, administered the last sacrament to them. The preparations for the hanging began at 12:00 p. m., when the yard around the gallows was cleared of prisoners. Both men were lying in their cells. Murphy was in the same semi-conscious state and although his eyes wandered in all directions he could not understand what was going on. Only once did he return to his senses and then he held out his hands with him. This was only for an instant, for he once more lost consciousness, notwithstanding the fact that the amnesia administered to him caused him to vomit the poison, which was a greenish hue. At 12:30 the arms and legs of the men were extended while they were still in a recumbent position. Six witnesses were sworn by sheriff Butler and the death warrant was read to the executioners. They were carried to the scaffold at 12:45 p. m. Finding that the men were unable to sit in chairs the ropes were lengthened in order to position them as they lay in a half-recumbent position on the gallows. The rain had caused the ropes to stretch, so that when the drop fell Murphy's feet touched the pavement and Ford's feet touched the pavement and Ford's feet touched the pavement. It only took a few minutes for the executioners, robed in blue domino and mask, to adjust the ropes and black cap before he returned to the cell, followed almost instantly by a sharp "twist" of the axe as it cut the rope. Then the bodies of John Murphy and Pat Ford stood upon the stake to come up with a sudden jerk. The drop was about eight feet. The bodies were allowed to hang twenty-five minutes and were cut down at 1:15 p. m.

Stranger Than Fiction.

A romantic story comes from Belgium. A wealthy manufacturer of Limburg had an only daughter who had many suitors, but who showed a marked preference for a young clerk in her father's employ, an orphan with no means but his salary. As the young clerk had always given the greatest satisfaction to his employer, the father, persuaded that he would never venture to raise his eyes to his daughter, who was sincerely attached to him, made up his mind to broach the subject to him. What was the father's surprise when the young clerk after much hesitation, told him he would be only too happy to regard his daughter as a sister, but he could not marry her, seeing that he was not a man, but a young woman, in a disguise she had adopted when left an orphan, in order to obtain a more honorable situation. The conclusion of the story is the result of marrying the daughter the young clerk, his wife, the father, who happened to be a widower.

A rural contemporary pleads as an excuse for its untenable position taken in a previous issue, that the editorial containing it "was written on the spur of the moment." This goes to show the folly of a reckless adoption of modern innovations. In the future let it cling to a time-honored custom of the country press, and write its copy on the margins of exchanges, scraps of waste paper or the blank side of unused manuscript, if it would avoid error.

NORTH-WEST NEWS.

At Saskatchewan have four beer saloons, chiefly for police accommodation. As the present strength of the force is only two men, business is slack.

The poles for the telegraph line to Fort Saskatchewan are being taken out rapidly. A large number for this end of the line are being hauled from the woods west of the Long Lake trail.

Dr. A. Young, Methodist mission teacher at Whitefish Lake, will shortly leave that place for Miley, Bow River, where he will take charge of the Methodist orphanage for Indian children. Mrs. Yeaman will act as matron.

A dwelling is being erected for the Presbyterian mission teacher on the Stony Plain Indian reserve, 182½ of hewed logs. The Indians are giving voluntary assistance at getting out logs. It is to be erected near the schoolhouse.

A Presbyterian Church is to be erected at Ft. Saskatchewan this spring upon the Government reserve, between the barracks and the post office building; site 182½, hewed logs. The work will be chiefly done by volunteer labor. The logs are being placed on the ground.

The crops of the Indians at Riviere Qu'Appelle and of the Indian farm at that place, were recently threshed by Cost's machine. The result was about 900 bushels of wheat, and barley; no oats. It is estimated that a fourth of the whole amount of grain was destroyed by rabbits while in the stack. The rabbits in Newmark, Calhoun, the largest farmer, had over 600 bushels of grain.

Hydrophobia Epidemic.

Bradford, in Yorkshire, is suffering from the same kind of panic about hydrophobia that prevailed in Newark. It seems as if there were a better foundation in the latter case for the belief that a rabid dog has bitten somebody. In Newark it has been shown as strongly as negative evidence can show anything that the dog which bit children was not rabid, and that the money spent in sending children to Paris to be inoculated might as well have been burned. Mr. Pasture is no doubt a man of science, but the suspicion that he is not above advertising himself as such is strengthened by his avowal of inability to secure in colonies except at his own office. His insistence upon the coming to him from old to new moon be ascertained, the direction from which the wind will blow for the next seven days is given.

The moon supplies a small amount of heat and a great deal of light. It also affects the earth in respect to magnetism.

The moon is about 240,000 miles from the earth.

If the moon were buried up ships in harbor could no longer get out, and these without could not get in.

Seen from the planet Venus the moon would appear as a companion star or planet with the earth.

If the moon were destroyed the loss of heat, while hardly perceptible, would slightly lower the temperature at night.

It is a maxim of farmers out West that all plants which are to grow up, like corn or wheat, must, in order to prosper, have their seed sown when the moon is waxing, but all which are to grow down, like beets, parsnips, etc., must have the seed sown in the waning of the moon.

Nothing But a Postmark.

"Say, my friend, where did you get that black eye?"

"Well, against a (his) post."

"I'm afraid, I'm afraid that black eye is the trademark of a drunkard."

"No, sir, talent trademark—nothing but a postmark."

The correct is here to stay.

A newspaper has been started at Sitka. Printers out of a Sitka perhaps get on by applying early.—(Boston Post.) In each far-fetched attempt we cannot see what there is to Boston. Postpone them for the future.

(The Alaskan Sitka.) It takes a good while for a joke to travel to Alaska and back, especially what it is as well as the above; and in the interval we had forgotten our crime. Now as we Sitka-ly and look at it we sigh, Alaskan such things be!

Wild-Horse Hunting in Nebraska

Six or seven years ago, says a contemporary, no one in Nebraska seemed to understand the method of catching wild horses; but the business was profitable, and several men have followed it as a means of livelihood. Two men always work together, not then start out from Sydney, either north or south, and they are almost certain to find a bunch of horses within fifteen miles. The plan then is to pitch a tent and make camp; and as the horses are few on his best horse, carrying with him a few blankets or something convenient to eat, starts a wild bunch. He does not ride very fast, and at first does not try to get near them, but is content to keep the bunch moving, not allowing them to stop and eat. The horses may go ten or a dozen miles, or they may go fifty or sixty; but no matter how far they run, they will return to the range from which they started. If they go far, the mettle of the rider will be tried to the utmost; the bunch must be kept moving, and there is no chance to change saddles, and pass near the camp. Day and night, on they go; if the weather be clear and the night not stormy, the rider will not close after the animals, sometimes a half-mile behind, sometimes within a hundred yards; it makes no difference whether it be dark or light, the horse that is ridden, trained to the business, follows after the herd. When the first rider succeeds in turning the bunch and bringing them back to the camp, he is relieved by the second, who, with a fresh horse, starts after the herd. The first rider turns in and takes a much needed rest. This time they will probably go so far, and after a while, they become tamer, and the hunter can turn them at pleasure. The day may require a week, or it may be done in a couple of days. If the horses do not become scarce, they will run so far and are more easily managed. When the bunch becomes worried and starved out it is driven towards the nearest corral.

The Portrait of a Lady.

Mr. Frode, the English historian, in a recent book of travels in the English colonies, describes a visit to a Maori village in New Zealand. One of the party, an amateur painter, was the hero of the following adventure.

On our way back we passed a cottage with creepers growing over the roof, a patch of garden and a small stream. I was to be sheltered in. Before the door an ancient Maori dame, black-haired, black-eyed, but with a skin wrinkled by the suns of many summers, was engaged in her work. She was a hard-looking old savage, bareheaded, bare-armed, and bare-legged, with short, brown pointed ears, and a black-robed crossed over her neck. The same was characteristic; E—wished for a recollection of it, and produced his sketch-book. Now, the painter, I said, I was to be drawn—either themselves or their horses. Partly they look on it as an enchantment, partly as a taking away something of theirs for which their lives are sold. The more arranged beforehand. E—sat himself down on the fern, about half a dozen yards from where the dame was sitting at work, and began to draw. She looked up occasionally, glanced first at E—and then called to some of her own people who were digging potatoes and very busy. They did not hear her or did not understand what was the matter. They took no notice and the turned again to her fish. Presently she raised herself to her full height, turned direct to E—and then to us, and gave a prolonged howl. E—sat on, glancing at her now and then, but not at all transfixed and transferring them to his paper. She howled again, and, as he made no sign of moving, she made a step toward him, flashing her eyes and gesticulating violently. The more angry she grew the more piteous became her figure and the more deliberately E—studied her. She stepped up a step and was instantly introduced into the drawing. It was too much; she went for him like a fury, came so close that he felt her hot breath on his face, and had her arm raised to do it. With the most intense impetuosity he did not move a muscle, but drew as calmly as if he had been drawing a tree or a rock. Her features were convulsed with rage. His indifference paralyzed her, perhaps frightened her. There is a momentary pause in the absolute coolness which is too strong for excited nerves. She dropped her fist, turned sullenly round, and hid herself in her cabin.

Ruby Mines in Mandalay.

"Digging" are situated at Kysapan, about 70 miles to the northeast of Mandalay, and cover an area of a hundred square miles. The system of mining at present employed is extremely rude. Square pits are dug in the ground until the gravel bed is reached in which the gems occur and from which they are extracted by means of a small amount of washing. Besides rubies the gravel yields sapphires, Oriental topaz, Oriental emerald, transparent corundum, spinel, and zircon. The rubies are generally of a fine quality and are very commonly disfigured by flaws. The sapphires found are for the most part larger than the rubies and are more perfect in color. The only rubies which it has been found possible to consult it appears that the annual value of the stones of all kinds taken from these mines is from about $12 to $15,000. Rubies and sapphires also occur at the Sagen Hills, 100 miles from Mandalay, but they are of a lower quality. It is quite possible that the ignorance of miners is mainly accountable for the small returns now being made. The introduction by the aid of European skill and machinery, their yield might be vastly increased, but, judging from the actual condition of the workings, the just return for the labor is very far short of the expectations formed about it on the Pacific Coast. In the estimation of Oriental, the jade is the most valuable gem, and to the northwest of Bama, are of great value than the rubies mines. Though not so productive as the rubies, they are not less valuable. The Mogawg workings yield equally good, if not finer, kinds of the mineral. The apple-green jade is of absolute value, is in considerable quantities and commands a ready market at high prices, both in China and Barmah.

The Tribune.

FRIDAY, APRIL 2, 1886.

We have received a copy of the Report of the Minister of Education for the year 1885, with the statistics of 1884. From it we glean a few facts which may be of interest to some, at least, of the readers of The Tribune. The school population, embracing those from five to 16 years of age, for the year 1884 was 471,257, an actual decrease of 30,903 as compared with 1878. The total number of pupils registered in 1884 was 466,917, while in 1878 it was 490,537. No attempt is made to account for this decline in numbers, which is remarkable when we remember that the population of the province has steadily increased during that period.

Coming to the attendance of pupils the Report states that 81 per cent. of the pupils registered attend school less than 20 days. In 1878 the number attending less than 20 days was nearly 90 per cent.; 161 per cent. attended school less than 50 days; 231,859 pupils attended school less than 100 days or less than six months in the year. The Minister regrets such great irregularity, and states that it is quite clear that unless the attendance of the pupils is secured, the expenditure upon school buildings and the training of teachers will be comparatively unproductive. The great problem is how to increase the average attendance. The Minister draws the attention of school boards to the clauses of the Act requiring parents to cause children from seven to thirteen years of age to attend a public school for one hundred days in each year, and especially to the clause inflicting penalties on those who neglect to comply with the law on this point. We fear that all this will be of no avail. So long as the government lacks the backbone to pass a compulsory law, no long must we expect the existence of the evils of which the Minister complains.

Since 1876 the number of public school teachers has increased from 6,183 to 7,083. It is satisfactory to find from the Report that many entering the profession are disposed to seek a higher standard of literary culture, and that there is an increased demand on the part of boards of trustees for such teachers. The Minister regrets, however, a tendency on the part of some teachers to remain satisfied with any qualification which entitles them to conduct a public school.

There has been a small increase in the salaries paid to teachers. In 1876 the average salary paid to male teachers was $385 and to female teachers $260. In 1884 they had risen to $426 and $279. It is unnecessary to state that these salaries are much less than those paid to teachers in the United States. The Minister urges on trustees the duty of paying teachers weekly, monthly, or at least quarterly, and pertinently asks why there should be a discrepancy between the salaries paid females as compared with males.

The total receipts for school purposes during the year 1884 amounted to $3,723,138, of which $270,084 was the legislative grant; $780,433, Clergy Reserve Fund and other sources; and $2,672,621, municipal school grants and assessments. The expenditure during the same year was $3,280,862, an increase of $74,406 over 1876. The average cost per pupil on total attendance was $7.92 and on the average attendance, $14.79.

The Report states that in 1884 there were 207 separate schools, with 427 teachers and 27,463 pupils. The total receipts for these schools were $100,454, and the expenditure $176,477. The average cost per pupil in these schools was $6.42.

For the same year the statistics show 100 high schools and collegiate institutes with 335 teachers and 12,737 pupils. The total expenditure on these schools was $383,426. The average cost per pupil was $30.26.

An old prophecy, attributed to Nostradamus, says:—

Quand Georges le crucifiera,
Quand Marc le maciara,
Quand Jean le portera,
Le fin du monde arrivera.

All these conditions are fulfilled in this year of 1886. Friday falls on St. George's day, Easter on St. Mark's day, and Corpus Christi on St. John's day.

This Education Report shows that in the County of Hastings, exclusive of Belleville and Trenton there are 10,387 children between 5 and 16 years of age. There were in attendance at the public schools 26,709, under 5 years of age; 10,163 between 5 and 21; 11 over 21 years, making a total of 10,149 pupils at these schools. Of these 5,254 were boys and 4,896 were girls. 1,206 of the pupils attended less than 20 days during the year; 1,160, from 20 to 50 days; 2,339, from 51 to 100 days; 2,328, from 101 to 150 days; 1,782, from 151 to 200 days, and 4,366 only from 201 days to the whole school year. 3,992 children between 7 and 13 years of age did not attend any school for 110 days during the year. 333 children between 7 and 13 years of age did not attend any school during the year. The average attendance was 4,227, or 42 per cent. of the whole. Belleville has a school population of 2,227, and had 2,328 pupils at the schools with an average attendance of 1,278, or 55 per cent. Trenton has 1,013 of a school population, the attendance being 508, the average attendance being 470, or 49 per cent.

COMMUNICATIONS. CHURCH CHOIRS.

To the Editor of the Tribune.

DEAR SIR:—Have the members of a choir any relations to the church? This question was asked by a visitor to one of our churches a few weeks ago? He repeated the question: have the young people who sing sweet music any interest in the words of the hymns which they utter, are they made it for salvation by being members of the choir? Having asked the several of the churches in your village I would also repeat the question.

The minister has listened to the choir with proper admiration, while they render their selection. The people have been held in a state of rapture with their sweet singing. The congregation resume their seats; the pastor announces his text. Every eye is set upon the minister. Every word of truth is listened to with profound respect and admiration. Now what is the condition of the choir all this time? I need not reply.

Is it not too sad that young people so gifted with God's blessing should so frequently forget themselves? They assist in one portion of the service; then they annoy the whole congregation, trouble their pastor, and many who might have received good instruction are driven away in disgust. Were the members of a choir to look down into a congregation and see half a dozen folks laughing, talking, scribbling, turning over the leaves of a book and annoying their neighbors, what would they think. And yet such is the scene too frequently witnessed by those who look at the members of our choir during divine service now-a-days. What is more displeasing to the humble worshipper? The question repeats itself and deserves explanation. Have the members of the choir any relation to the church?

OBSERVER.

THE CHIEF NECESSITY OF ONTARIO

To the Editor of the Tribune.

SIR,—The chief necessity of Ontario is really the procurement of something to replace our fast vanishing shelter. On all sides, our woods—the small remains of our great forests—are being cut down, or from cattle being allowed to range in them, are becoming so destitute of young trees, and so beaten into a hard turf instead of a proper forest bed, that they are falling into decay and blowing down. If cattle were kept out when the forest is yet good it would of ten stay so, and remain valuable for shelter and perpetually. But we cannot, in this country, preserve a forest if we make it a cattle range. It is best to let the cattle have some bush to themselves, but not the bush the proprietor wishes to keep as a bush.

But as this has very largely not been attended to, it is the next best thing to look about for a substitute. How necessary it is a short journey through Ontario will tell any one. I lately visited a district in which, thirty years ago, I had seen one of the first settlers. It had been a tall forest far as the eye could observe, and as much of it covered the side of a great mountain, a vast range was visible. Travelled through twenty miles of forest—the forest was gone—there was a bleak and barren expanse, here and there broken by a small wood or scrubby line of undergrowth, or low thickets covering a piece of damp land; but all else reminded one of the steppes of Russia. The question I readily put to my mind: "What will Ontario be if she do not better herself in tree planting?"

What I wish to recommend to my readers is planting of lines of trees, not deciduous, for those are of no use in winter when needed most, but evergreens, of which I have seen large numbers growing uselessly, here and there, in woods or near their borders, just the thing for transplanting. If these, where they can be had, or obtained from nurseries, which should not cost much, as in the States they are sold, four to six inches long, at three to six dollars the thousand, larger trees of course cost more, and planted out there yearly by millions—if these or such were planted in lines along the exposed sides of farms, we should again have a sheltered country, and a prospect of growing much more grain to the acre than we are likely to obtain shortly, if we do not give shelter to the fields. I lately had about three hundred letters from different parts of America and Canada, giving universal testimony that where fields have been protected, especially in winter, by belts of trees or portions of forests, the yield of crops has often been double.

I trust we shall soon see in Ontario, millions of acres covered in shelter belts yearly. No labor on the farm promises so great a return, and the labour is not great.

Yours, &c.,
R. W. PHIPPS.

TRAGIC CAWPORE.

An Indian City of Terrible Mutiny Memories.

The Rev. T. Edward Jiggle, a Canadian missionary writing for the Anti-Slavery, N. Y. P. India, in January last to the Brantford Expresser says:—When the American traveler Bayard Rustin came to Cawpore: "A pleasant spot though it contains nothing but a mass of ruins." Could he have projected his vision into the future but five years he would have seen events transpiring, which have served to give the "loopy" old place a melancholy interest such as belongs to no other town in India. Its too famous "Well," the scene of the most atrocious massacre perpetrated during the mutiny of 1857, is a standing monument of gentle innocence suffering at the hand of treacherous cruelty.

Cawpore is a city of considerable commercial importance and stands on the Ganges about eighty miles from here. It has become a great changing mart to which the produce of the country north is sent to be sold and distributed to Calcutta and Bombay.

THE TRAGIC INTEREST

of the city is the one I wish to speak of specially. Here at the time of the mutiny, there was no fort. Sir Hugh Wheeler who was in command of the British troops, a native infantry, a slender European force and a large body of English residents. Its treasury was rich, its defenses were strong, the human life of the city was not in danger. The fact that the British were not killed to the fact. This man was the son of the last Palahwa of the Nahrastar. Being illegitimate, his defense was poor otherwise due from the British government, and therefore cherished a bitter hate, although outwardly a warm friend. Sir Hugh Wheeler, the British commander, prepared himself by the construction of an entrenchment, and manned it with a few guns. He was not mistaken, for on the 11th of June, the British troops were revolted, and the villanous Brahmins, Nana Sahib, threw off the mask by leading the revolt. They murdered the British, and about the middle of the next day a nine pound shot fell within the enclosure as the signal of deadly fire. The shrieks of women and children, the cries of the "loopy," mingled with the horrid din of war, were heartrending never did earth witness so horrid a siege as that of this feeble garrison in their little fort. The British were burning the houses of the British, and the world seen nobler patience and fortitude than in the suffering and death of those noble women and children, the daughters of the heroes of Cawpore. The

came on some in the midst of all this dread discomfort and painful publicity. Others had babes swept from their arms by the desolating shot of the enemy. Day by day the little garden of childhood was being cannon or struck by the sun's burning rays. One hundred fugitives from Bahaghat escaping by boat were captured, their hands tied behind, and they were taken to the blood thirsty tyrant. On the twenty-first day of the siege a wretched half dead woman with a child at her breast, was lifted over the rampart and stretched on the wall of a Cawpore merchant. Nana had given her a letter to the besieged, in which he promised safe passage to Allahabad to whom they would lay down arms. The hopeless remnant of the besieged hesitated for a time, but they had borne all they could bear, and their provisions were giving out, and the rainy season was approaching. They accepted the terms, and on the morning of the 27th, the procession started for this river. Sixteen elephants and eighty palanquins composed the van and at 9 a. m. all had embarked. Then followed the most brutal and fiendish massacre that history records. The whole bank of the river was lined with soldiers in ambush, and when the signal was given they opened fire on the boats which being crowded with women and children, were unable to reach the shallow water. "The scene that followed," says one of the two survivors of the wreck, "beggars description." Those who could, threw themselves into the water, and swam the river. Out of twelve swimmers ten were killed in the water and one wounded. Meanwhile Nana Sahib was proclaimed Palahwa of the Nahrastar and two hundred hostages were massacred. They were first subjected to all the insult and degradation which a depraved mind could concoct and then beheaded. Only one misery these brave ones did not suffer—dishonor, refusing even freedom at the expense of entering the haven of Nana. The next day Havelook routed Nana in the battle of Cawpore. A British officer writes, "I am not exaggerating when I say that the scene of my book was more than covered with the blood of these fair ones. Portions of collars, dresses and hats, saturated with blood lay scattered around, whilst in the sword cuts on the pillars of the room, long traces of hair were sticking carried by the edge of a weapon. No wonder was it that the British soldiers divided among them the living locks of one poor murdered girl and swore that for every hair

A BREVIO BLOOD DUE

All the rebel Sepoys and troopers who were captured were tried by a drum head court martial and hanged. But hanging was not enough for such a crime as this was and accompanied by shame and degradation. The wretches were made to clean away the blood of their victims, a thing peculiarly odious to a Hindu. What became of Nana Sahib is a mystery. Several times he was supposed to have been found but examination proved it false. Let us return to the "Well." Nothing is painful here but its memories. It is holy ground which pious hands have converted into a beautiful park with flowered walks and weeping willows, and consecrated as a shrine of martyrdom. None but Europeans are permitted to pass freely. Only by special permission can a native enter the grounds, and he must not even then approach the well enclosure. Over the sacred spot is a figure in marble to represent Roporo, with diadems and head slightly bent; Under it is the inscription, "Sacred to the memory of a great company of Christian people who were cruelly murdered by order of Nana Dundaop of Bithoor, and cast the dying with the dead, into the well below. No games or amusements are allowed and carriages must not go a walking pace within the park limits. This, in brief, is the story of Cawpore, a name that afterwards became the watchword of the Sepoys. Delhi, and was whispered in the ear of every traitor who walked with his life the penalty of bloody crime. "Remember Cawpore."

HANGED WHILE UNCONSCIOUS

Further Particulars of the Unusual Execution.

A special despatch from New Orleans gives the following additional particulars of the hanging of Ford and Murphy, who were swung into eternity while in an unconscious state from the effects of belladonna which they had taken:—

The men appeared to be sleeping soundly at 7:30 a.m. when efforts to arouse them revealed their condition. They were lying on their backs. Ford was breathing very loudly while Murphy appeared to be sleeping calmly. Efforts to arouse Ford were unavailing, but Murphy was aroused and when asked how he felt replied, "very bad." A tremor passed over him and he again sank into unconsciousness. Two pieces of paper were found in the cell which had evidently contained the belladonna. The fact that the condemned man had attempted suicide, Rev. Father O'Callahan, in accordance with the rules of the Catholic church, refused to administer the last sacrament to him. The preparations for the hanging began at 12:03 p.m., when the yard and corridors were cleared of prisoners. Both men were lying in their cells. Murphy was in the same semi-conscious state and although his eyes wandered in all directions he could not return to his senses and then he held out his hand to Ford and endeavored to shake hands with him. This was only for an instant, for he once more sank into unconsciousness, notwithstanding the fact that the emotion administered to him caused him to vomit the poison, which was of no avail. At 12:25 the arms and legs of the men were placed while they were still in a recumbent position. Six witnesses were sworn by the executioner, and the men were carried to the scaffold at 12:45 p.m. Finding that the men were unable to sit in chairs the ropes were lengthened in order to reach them as they lay in a half recumbent position on the gallows. The rain had caused the ropes to stretch, so that when the drop fell, the rope touched the pavement and Ford's feet almost touched it. It only took a few minutes for the executioner, robed in his black and white, to take the drop, and black cap before he returned to the cell, followed almost instantly by a sharp "swish" of the axe as it cut the rope. Then the bodies of John Murphy and Pat Ford swung through the air to come up with a sudden jerk. The drop was about eight feet. The bodies were allowed to hang twenty-five minutes and were cut down at 1:15 p.m.

Stranger Than Fiction.

A romantic story comes from Belgium. A wealthy manufacturer of Limburg had an only daughter who had many suitors, but who showed a marked preference for a young clerk in her father's employ, an orphan with no means but his salary. As the young clerk had always given the greatest satisfaction to his employer, the father, persuaded that he would never venture to raise his eyes to his daughter, who was sincerely attached to him, made up his mind to break the subject to him. What was the father's surprise when the young clerk after much hesitation, told him he would be only too happy to regard his daughter as a sister, but he could not marry her, seeing that he was not a man, but a young woman, in a disguise she had adopted when left an orphan, in order to obtain a more lucrative situation. The conclusion of the story is that instead of marrying the daughter, the young clerk is now the wife of the father, who happened to be a widower.

A rural contemporary pleads as an excuse for its untenable position taken in a previous issue, that the editorial containing it "was written on the spur of the moment." This goes to show the folly of a reckless adoption of modern innovations. In the future let it cling to a time honored custom of the country press, and write its copy on the margins of exchanges, scraps of waste paper or the blank side of unused manuscript, if it would avoid error.

NORTH-WEST NEWS.

St. Saskatchewan has four beer saloons, chiefly for police accommodation. As the presence of the force is only two men, business is slack.

A Presbyterian Church is to be erected at Ft. Saskatchewan this spring upon the Government reserve, between the barracks and the post office building. It will be 1824, hewed logs. The work will be chiefly done by volunteer labor. The logs are being placed on the ground.

The crops of the Indians at Riviere Claire and of the Indian farm at that place were recently threshed by Gust's machine. The result was about 1,900 bushels of wheat, barley, and oats. The grain was of a fourth of the whole amount of grain was destroyed by rabbits while in the stack. They were in thousands. Chief Michel, the largest farmer, had over 600 bushels of grain.

Hydrophobia Epidemic.

Bradford, in Yorkshire, is suffering it seems, from the same kind of panic about hydrophobia that prevailed in Newark. It seems as if there were a better foundation in the latter case for the belief that a rabid dog has bitten someone. In Newark it has been ascertained that a dog, which bit children was not rabid, and that the money spent in sending children to Paris to be inoculated might as well have been burned. M. Pasteur is no doubt a man of science, but the suspicion that he is not above advertising himself as such is strengthened by his avowal of inability to secure inoculations except at his own office. His insistence upon the sending to him from Poland of supposed rabid dogs, is evidence by a wolf supposed to be rabid, from Yorkshire and from New Jersey of persons suspected to be incubating hydrophobia, looks like "the great business" than the pursuit of medical knowledge. Dr. Anna Kingsford, who has some professional standing in England, is endeavoring to prove that Pasteur's discoveries are of no importance. Unfortunately this does not count for much, because she is one of the anti-vivisectionists who are absolutely violent in denying that any good can come from vivisection.

"Why, the fact that he didn't ask me what I had done with the fifty cents which he gave me last week."

Wild-Horse Hunting in Nebraska.

Six or seven years ago, says a contemporary, no one in Nebraska seemed to understand the method of catching wild horses; the business was profitable, and several men have followed it as a means of livelihood. Two men always work together, let them start out from Sydney, either north or south, and they are almost certain to find a bunch of horses within fifteen miles. The plan then is to pitch a tent and make camp; and one of the men mounted on his best horse, carrying with him a few blankets or something convenient to eat, starts after the bunch. He does not ride very fast, and at first does not try to get near them, but is content to keep the bunch moving, not allowing them to stop and eat. The horse may go ten or a dozen miles, or they may go fifty or sixty; but no matter how far they run, they will return to the range from which they started. If they go far, the motto of the rider will be tried to the utmost; the bunch must be kept moving, and there is no chance to change saddle until they turn of their own accord and pass near the camp. Day and night, on they go; if the weather be clear and the night not too dark, the rider will be close after the animals, sometimes a half-mile behind, sometimes within a hundred yards. It makes no difference whether it be dark or light, the horse that is ridden to the camp, he is relieved by the second, who, with a fresh horse, starts after them while his companion turns in and takes a much needed rest. This time they will probably go a bit, and after a while, they become tamer, and the hunter can turn them at pleasure. This may require a week, or it may be done in a couple of days. If the horses do not become scared, they will not run so far and are more easily managed. When the bunch becomes tired and starved out it is driven towards the nearest corral.

FACTS FOR LUNATICS.

Had we a railway to the moon it would take but about a year to reach it, travelling at the rate of twenty-seven miles an hour. None of the heavenly bodies, except the sun and moon, has any direct influence on the earth.

Old sailors think that if the direction in which the moon is at the time it changes from old to new moon be ascertained, the direction from which the wind will blow for the next seven days can be known.

The moon supplies a small amount of heat and a great deal of light. It also affects the earth in respect to magnetism.

The moon is about 240,000 miles from the earth.

If the moon were burned up ships in harbor could no longer get out, and these without could not get in.

Seen from the planet Venus the moon would appear as a companion star or planet with the earth.

If the moon were destroyed the loss of heat, while hardly perceptible, would slightly lower the temperature at night.

It is a maxim of farmers out West that all plants which are to grow up, like corn or wheat, must, in order to prosper, have their seed sown when the moon is waxing, but all which are to grow low, like beets, parsnips, etc., must have the seed sown in the waning of the moon.

"Fell against a (his) post."

"Ah, my dear sir, I am afraid that black eye is the trademark of a drunkard."

"No, sir, that trademark was—nothing but a postmark."

The Portrait of a Lady.

Mr. Fronte, the English historian, in a recent book of travels of the English colonies, describes a visit to a Moorish village in New Zealand. One of the party, an amateur artist, was the hero of the following adventure:

On our way back we passed a cottage with creepers growing over the roof, a patch of garden, and a tall, thin, dark-skinned man, and sheltering it. Before the door an ancient Moor, dark, black-haired, black-eyed, but with a skin wrinkled by the suns of many summers, was engaged in a game of billiards. She was a hard-looking old savage, bare-headed, bare-armed, and bare-legged, with a short, brown petticoat, and a handkerchief crossed over her head and shoulders. She was characteristic; I wished for a recollection of it, and produced my sketch-book. Now, the natives were so ready to be drawn—either themselves or their houses. Parly they look on it as an enchantment, partly as a taking away something of theirs for which their land is being sold, and a bargain arranged beforehand. E—sat himself down on the fern, about half a dozen yards from where the old woman was at work, and began to draw. She looked on him, glaucous, flanked first at E—and then called to some of her own people who were digging potatoes not very far off. Ruby Mines in Mandalay.

"Digging" are situated at Syatpen, about 70 miles to the northeast of Mandalay, and cover an area of a hundred square miles. The system of mining at present employed is extremely rude. Square pits are dug in the ground until the gravel bed is reached, in which the gems occur and from which they are extracted by a rough and ready yield of sapphire, Oriental topaz, Oriental emerald, transparent corundum, spinel, and zircon. The rubies are generally small and are very commonly disfigured by flaws. The sapphires found are for the most part larger than the rubies and are more perfect. From the only returns made by the government of the value of the stones of all kinds taken from 300. Rubies and sapphires also occur at the Sagen Hills diggings, 16 miles from Mandalay, but they are of an inferior quality. It is quite possible that the ignorance of miners is mainly accountable for the small returns secured from these mines, and that, by the aid of European methods, their yield might be vastly increased, but, judging from the actual condition of the workings, their practical value is very far from being great. The rubies are found on the Parli-Boursa. In the estimation of Oriental the jade quarries in the Mogao district, the most valuable of the rubies of greater value than the rubies mines. Though not so productive as the Karakash quarries in Turkistan, the Mogao rubies are of considerable value. If no finer, kinds of the mineral. The apple-green species, which is considered the most valuable, is in considerable quantities and commands a ready market at high prices, both in China and Burma.

The Tribune.

FRIDAY, APRIL 2, 1886.

We have received a copy of the Report of the Minister of Education for the year 1885, with the statistics of 1884. From it we glean a few facts which may be of interest to some, at least, of the readers of THE TRIBUNE. The school population, embracing those from five to 16 years of age, for the year 1884 was 471,257, an actual decrease of 30,000 as compared with 1876. The total number of pupils registered in 1884 was 466,917, while in 1876 it was 490,577. No attempt is made to account for this decline in numbers, which is remarkable when we remember that the population of the province has steadily increased during that period.

Coming to the attendance of pupils the Report states that 91 per cent. of the pupils registered attend school less than 20 days. In 1876 the number attending less than 20 days was nearly 91 per cent.; 161 per cent. attended school less than 50 days; 231,850 pupils attended school less than 100 days or less than six months in the year. The Minister regrets such great irregularity, and states that it is quite clear that unless the attendance of the pupils is secured, the expenditure upon school buildings and the training of teachers will be comparatively unproductive. The great problem is how to increase the average attendance. The Minister draws the attention of school boards to the clauses of the Act requiring parents to cause children from seven to thirteen years of age to attend a public school for one hundred days in each year, and especially to the clause inflicting penalties on those who neglect to comply with the law on this point. We fear that all this will be of no avail. So long as the government lacks the backbone to pass a compulsory law, so long must we expect the existence of the evils of which the Minister complains.

Since 1876 the number of public school teachers has increased from 6,185 to 7,085. It is satisfactory to find from the Report that many entering the profession are disposed to seek a higher standard of literary culture, and that there is an increased demand on the part of boards of trustees for such teachers. The Minister regrets, however, a tendency on the part of some teachers to remain satisfied with any qualification which entitles them to conduct a public school.

There has been a small increase in the salaries paid to teachers. In 1876 the average salary paid to male teachers was $385 and to female teachers $300. In 1884 they had risen to $426 and $270. It is unnecessary to state that these salaries are much less than those paid to teachers in the United States. The Minister urges on trustees the duty of paying teachers weekly, monthly, or at least quarterly, and pertinently asks why there should be a discrepancy between the salaries paid females as compared with males.

The total receipts for school purposes during the year 1884 amounted to $3,723,138, of which $276,084 was the legislative grant; $780,433, Clergy Reserve Fund and other sources; and $2,675,621, municipal school grants and assessments. The expenditure during the same year was $3,280,862, an increase of $274,406 over 1876. The average cost per pupil on total attendance was $7.02 and on the average attendance, $14.79.

The Report states that in 1884 there were 207 separate schools, with 427 teachers and 27,463 pupils. The total receipts for these schools were $100,454, and the expenditure $176,477. The average cost per pupil in these schools was $6.42.

For the same year the statistics show 100 high schools and college institutes with 353 teachers and 12,737 pupils. The total expenditure on these schools was $385,426. The average cost per pupil was $30.20.

An old prophecy, attributed to Nostradamus, says:

Quand Georges le crucifiera,
Quand Marc le sacrifiera,
Quand Jean le portera,
Le fin du monde arrivera.

All these conditions are fulfilled in this year of 1886. Good Friday falls on St. George's day, Easter on St. Mark's day, and Corpus Christi on St. John's day.

The Education Report shows that in the County of Hastings, exclusive of Belleville and Trenton there are 10,387 children between 5 and 16 years of age. There were in attendance at the public schools 26 pupils under 5 years of age; 10,163 between 5 and 21; 11 over 21 years, making a total of 10,140 pupils at these schools. Of these 5,254 were boys and 4,886 were girls. 1,206 of the pupils attended less than 20 days during the year; 1,916, from 20 to 50 days; 2,530, from 51 to 100 days; 2,328, from 101 to 150 days; 1,792, from 151 to 200 days; and 960 only from 201 days to the whole school year. 3,002 children between 7 and 15 years of age did not attend any school for 110 days during the year. 333 children between 7 and 13 years of age did not attend any school during the year. The average attendance was 4,227, or 42 per cent. of the whole. Belleville has a school population of 2,227, and had 2,328 pupils at its schools with an average attendance of 1,578, or 55 per cent. Trenton has a school population, the attendance being 1,058, the average attendance being 479, or 49 per cent.

COMMUNICATIONS. CHURCH CHOIRS.

To the Editor of the Tribune.

DEAR SIR:—Have the members of a choir any relations to the church? This question was asked by a visitor to one of our churches a few weeks ago? He revealed the question; have the young people who sing sweet music any interest in the words of love which they sing, or are they made it for salvation by being members of the choir? Having visited several of the churches in your village I would also repeat the question.

The minister has listened to the choir with proper attention. The people have been held in a state of rapture with their sweet singing. The congregation resumes their seats; the preacher announces his text. Every eye is set upon the minister. Every word of truth is listened to with profound respect and attention. Now what is the condition of the choir all this time? I need not reply. Is it not too sad that young people so gifted with God's blessing should so frequently forget themselves? They assist in one portion of the service; then they annoy the whole congregation, trouble their pastor, and many who might have received good instruction are driven away in disgust. Were the members of a choir to look down into a congregation and see half a dozen folks laughing, talking, scribbling, turning over the leaves of a book and annoying their neighbors, what would they think. And yet such is the accurate and frequently witnessed by those who look at the members of our choirs during divine service now-a-days. What is more displeasing to the humble worshipper? The question repeats itself and deserves explanation. Have the members of the choir any relation to the church?

OBSERVER.

THE CHIEF NECESSITY OF ONTARIO

To the Editor of the Tribune.

SIR:—The chief necessity of Ontario is really the procurement of something to replace our fast vanishing shelter. On all sides, our woods—the small remains of our great forests—are being cut down, or from cattle being allowed to range in them, are become so destitute of young trees, and so beaten into a hard turf instead of a proper forest bed, that they are falling into decay and blowing down. If cattle were kept out when the forest is yet good, it would often stay so, and remain valuable for shelter and fuel perpetually. But we cannot, in this country, preserve a forest if we make it a cattle range. It is best to let the cattle have some brush to themselves, but not the brush the proprietor wishes to keep as a bush.

But as this has very largely not been attended to, it is the next best thing to look about for a substitute. How necessary it is a short journey through Ontario will tell any one. I lately visited a district in which, thirty years ago, I had been one of the first settlers. It had been a tall forest far as the eye could observe, and as much of it covered the side of a great mountain, a vast range was visible. I travelled through twenty miles of forest—the forest was gone—there was a bleak and barren expanse, here and there broken by a small wood or scrubby line of underbrush, or low thicket covering a piece of damp land; but all else reminded one of the steppes of Russia. The question was vividly presented to my mind: "What will Ontario be if she do not better herself in tree planting?"

What I would recommend to my readers is planting of lines of trees, not deciduous, for those are of no use in winter when needed most, but evergreens, of which I have seen large numbers growing uncultivated, here and there, in woods or near their borders, just the thing for transplanting. If these, where they can be had, or obtained from nurseries, which should not cost much, as in the States they are sold, four to six inches long, at three to six dollars the thousand, larger trees of course cost more, and planted out there yearly by millions—if these or such were planted in lines along the exposed sides of farms, we should again have a sheltered country, and a prospect of growing much more grain to the acre than we are likely to obtain shortly, if we do not give shelter to the fields. I lately had about three hundred letters from different parts of America and Canada, giving universal testimony that where fields have been protected, especially in winter, by belts of trees or portions of forests, the yield of crops has often been double.

I trust we shall soon see in Ontario, millions of evergreens planted in shelter belts yearly. No labor on the farm promises so great a return, and the labor is not great.

Yours, &c.,

R. W. PHIPPS.

INVALIDS' HOTEL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE

No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Not a Hospital, but a pleasant Remedial Home, organized with a full staff of eighteen physicians and surgeons, and exclusively devoted to the treatment of all Chronic Diseases.

This imposing Establishment was designed and erected to accommodate the large number of invalids who visit Buffalo from every State and Territory, as well as from many foreign lands, that they may avail themselves of the professional services of the best of skilled specialists in medicine and surgery that compose the Faculty of this widely-celebrated institution.

NOT ALWAYS NECESSARY TO SEE PATIENTS.

By our original system of diagnosis, we can treat many chronic diseases just as successfully without an actual personal examination. While we are always glad to see our patients and become acquainted with them, show them our institutions, and familiarize them with our system of treatment, yet we have not seen one person in five hundred whom we have cured. The perfect accuracy with which our system is enabled to detect the most minute particulars in their several disorders, appears almost miraculous. If we view it in the light of the early years, for example, the electro-magnetic telegraph, the great invention of the age, is not a marvelous degree of accuracy which enables us to exactly locate a fracture in a submarine cable nearly three thousand miles long? Our venerable clerk of the weather, has become so thoroughly familiar with the most wayward elements of nature that he can accurately predict their movements. He can tell of Washington, where what the weather will be in Florida or New York as well as if several hundred miles did not intervene between them and the place named. And so in all departments of modern science, what is required is the knowledge of certain signs, and the completion of accurate conclusions regardless of distance. So, also, in medical science, the completion of accurate conclusions regarding signs or symptoms, and by reason of this fact, we have been enabled to originate and perfect a system of determining, with the greatest accuracy, the nature of chronic diseases, without seeing and personally examining our patients.

In recognizing diseases without a personal examination of the patient, we claim to possess no miraculous power. We obtain our knowledge of the patient's disease by the practical application, to the practice of medicine, of the well-established principles of modern science. And it is in the accuracy with which this system has endowed us that we owe our almost world-wide reputation of skillful treatment of lingering or chronic affections. This system of practice, and the marvelous success which has been attained through it, demonstrate the fact that diseases display certain phenomena, which, being subjected to scientific analysis, furnish abundant and unmistakable data, to guide the judgment of the skillful practitioner right in determining the nature of diseased conditions. The most ample resources for treating lingering or chronic diseases, and the greatest skill, are thus placed within the easy reach of every invalid, however distant he or she may reside from the physicians making the treatment. This is a specialty, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by Dr. V. Pierce, M. D., 100 pages and fully illustrated, in colored and black and white, sent, post-paid, for $1.00. Or write and describe your symptoms, including ten cents in stamps, and a complete booklet on your disease will be sent you, with our terms for treatment and all particulars.

OUR FIELD OF SUCCESS.

"OBSERVER" in his communication addressed himself to a question which is at the present time creating much inquiry in the press of Canada and the United States. Its solution is confessedly more difficult than the Kild or Irish question.

MR. WENTWORTH, flour milling expert of Buffalo, was in town last week, adding some new appliances and latest improvements to the Deseronto Flour Mill. The mill was shut down for a few days this week to enable some repairs to be made to the engine.

THE vast deposits of refuse stuff at the trestle dock have been all consumed. It is almost impossible to erect a large building which will enclose the whole dock, railway track and all, and thus protect the refuse from the rain and snow.

BOY "JOE" BROWN, by means of printer's ink in which he has implicit faith, fairly shook up Deseronto, as he expressed it, for a few days. His performance being of a high comic character, he was, on Monday evening he had a full house. A rich profusion of silver cups and other prizes were distributed among the audience.

A temperature of 56 degrees, a heavy rain, and high winds from the northwest made a great impression on the ice in the bay on Wednesday. On Wednesday night and at midnight the ice was so soft that yesterday kept smashing up the ice in fine style. There is now open water for a considerable distance above the town, and there is also a good deal of open water below. With anything like mild weather the ice must soon clear out altogether. It took its departure last year on the 25th of April.

The committee appointed by the County Council to enquire into the conduct of Mr. Thos. Wills, County Treasurer, met at Belleville on Tuesday. W. R. Aylworth, Esq., presided at the chair, and the other members of the committee, Messrs. Robert Gordon and A. N. Vermylen, were present. Mr. Harford Ashley submitted a series of charges, accusing Mr. Wills of disobeying the resolutions of the County Council, of making public what should be private, and of acting generally to the prejudice of the county. Mr. Huxley, Reeve of Tyndinaga, also charged Mr. Wills with selling lands in Tyndinaga at a loss to the township, and of publishing handbills on the day of the municipal election to influence the election. The committee adjourned to meet on April 29th inst. Whatever truth may be in the charges the result of the investigation will prove beneficial. Canadian Government and municipal officials too often forget that they are servants of the people.

THERE was a sheriff's sale on Robert Lloyd's farm, in Tyndinaga, on Friday. Lloyd was an industrious farmer and lived happily with his wife and family of five children. But a few years ago he introduced into the household an English emigrant, who, for a while, appeared to have a keen love. This gave cause for jealousy and Lloyd's wife remonstrated, but to no effect. He had become infatuated with the servant girl, and the matter was the gossip of the neighborhood. Mrs. Lloyd instituted a suit for alimony, claiming adultery and cruelty. The judge awarded the plaintiff $150 a year for her support. Lloyd paid no attention to the decision until his property was seized for about $400 due his wife. Lloyd declared he would never give his wife a cent. He took his parsonage and his child on Monday and left for the States by way of Kingston, leaving his wife's small children alone in the house for two days and nights before the neighbors found them, as a principal builder of the Flour Mills, and also visited two years ago at its reconstruction.

MR. JOHN MILNE, of the Machine Shop, had the top of one of his fingers ground off the other day in the cogs of one of the machines.

The pernicious habit of forestalling the market is not confined to Deseronto. It seems it obtains also in Belleville and residents of that city are thus compelled to pay high prices for produce.

The Minister of Finance made his Budget speech on Tuesday afternoon. The tariff changes from which an increased revenue is expected, are in the shape of a change from ad valorem to specific duties, and increase and readjustment of the taxes on sugar and alcohol. He announced that the same arrangement had been made under which the C. P. R. Company would repay twenty millions of the loan of 1884, giving land security for the balance, ten millions.

MR. CHAS. DOUGHERTY, of the Central Office, having received an appointment to a position in the Rathbun Company Agency at Ottawa, left for the capital on Monday inst. As he was a general favorite with all classes of the community there are many expressions of regret at his departure. The Ontario Ball, Mechanics' Institute, Dramatic Association, Cricket Club and other societies have lost a good member and generous patron. THE TRIBUNE joins with a host of well wishers in hoping that his career in Ottawa may be both pleasant and successful.

INTELLIGENCE was received yesterday of the destruction by fire of the Ashtabula in Toronto. The fire started about 4 o'clock in the morning and made rapid progress. The loss to the Company was very great as it was one of the best equipped and paper offices on the continent. The management, who will have universal sympathy, will not doubt prove equal to the emergency and prevent any break in the publication of the great journal.

The recent rains have swollen Sucker Creek to a great extent and it is now a raging river. On Wednesday the culvert this creek crossed the Marvella road was carried away and almost caused a catastrophe.

It seems that Mrs. O'Connor, with her son and a lady boy had driven out to Marysville and were returning home in the evening. Approaching the culvert they saw water, but thought it only an overflow and drove ahead into the stream. Horse and buggy disappeared under water and all the occupants were struggling for their life. The little boy was rescued by the young man again on shore, and Mrs. O'Connor clung to the top of the buggy. Their cries were heard by Walter and Charles Brant who lives near by. They made for their assistance, and only by great exertions managed to rescue the poor woman from her perilous position. The horse, which it is said was all this time under water, was rescued with much labor, rescued, but the buggy, robes, etc., which as well as the horse were the property of Mr. O'Connor, were lost.

The Tribune.

FRIDAY, APRIL 9, 1886.

Mr. GLANSTONE yesterday presented his proposed legislation on Irish matters to the British parliament. No English statesman has ever before been called on to face such a great problem fraught with such momentous consequences. Throughout the civil world his measure is awaited with keenest interest. No wonder that the day approached for presentation a large section of his cabinet became unnerved and tendered their resignations. The old veteran of seventy-five years alone goes into the struggle with undaunted courage. It remains to be seen whether he can by his unrivalled powers of argument and oratory so influence the house as to carry the measure. If he wins with all the powerful forces arrayed against him, it will be the most signal personal triumph in the annals of parliamentary government. The cable reports would indicate that defeat is certain, and that the Great Chief even courts defeat. But granting a temporary defeat what will follow? Who could succeed where Gladstone failed? No permanent alliance could be made between any of the groups of his opponents. Though his present prospects appear to be dark, there is little doubt that Gladstone will succeed in gaining at last, for Ireland that home rule to which she is entitled and which she will not be denied.

COMMUNICATIONS.

CHURCH CHOIRS.

To the Editor of the Tribune.

Sir,—Have the members of a choir any relation to the Church? is a question asked by a worthy correspondent in your last issue. It is a question worthy of consideration; and to speak plainly I say they have a very decided relation. The members of a choir have to make many sacrifices. They devote an evening each week to practice, must be on hand for their social, tea or entertainment, and that generally at their own expense. They must be at each service on Sunday, and if not on time, get a black look from organist or clergyman. They are treated like machinery (very few people pray for the choir). If the Soprano makes a little mistake everybody laughs. If the Tenor sings flat, they remark, that fellow has been drinking soda-water and should go west; and if the Bass—well, the people say, anybody can sing bass. The first remark you hear while leaving church is, "Well the choir only sang pretty well to-day." When a member is absent, the question is general: where is so-and-so to-day? Why do they stay away on Sunday? They then acknowledge that the choir has no relation to the church. I will admit that now and then you will see a little out of the way; but, Sir, Editor, let me say there is more sympathy with the services of the church in the choir than exists among the cold, stiff, glossy occupants of the pews. Glance around; they stalk into church, give a stiff bow, kneel in prayer, during singing look on (no music in their souls); listen to the preacher, rise up, go out, and maybe say a nice day and good sermon. Some make the church a place for conversation, you hear their loud remarks in the porch as they enter. Only last Sunday I observed conduct on the part of some ladies (!) not fit for a theatre. What relation do these bear to the church? Sometimes there is talking in the choir. I don't justify that, but it is about changes in hymns for the convenience of the preacher. I think our choirs deserve credit, and clergymen and church members should encourage and aid them more than they do.

TYENDINAGA RESERVE.

GUESTS REPORT.

The following Report of the Tyendinaga Reserve appears in the last Annual Report of the Department of the Minister of the Interior:—
"Sir,—I have the honor to transmit, for your information, the following report, together with the tabular statement, for the year ended the 30th June, 1885. This band now numbers 976, being an increase of eleven during the year. There were twenty-four births and thirteen deaths. The four schools on the reserve are fairly attended, and the children are making fair progress in their studies. The usual supply of blankets has been distributed among the aged and infirm Indians. The health of the band is very satisfactory. The reserve is visited by Doctors Newton and McLaren, who take great interest in the welfare of the Indians. The state of the reserve shows a marked degree of improvement since the lands were released, fast fall to white tenants; new fences are being made and new buildings erected. The farming operations are steadily progressing, and many of the Indians are making good progress in farming and dairying. Since my last report the Indian Council has repaired the Indian Council House and added a bell-tower to All-Saints Church, at a cost of about one thousand seven hundred dollars. I am pleased to be able to report that the sale of intoxicants to Indians has been greatly suppressed, and that it is now an unusual thing to see an Indian intoxicated. I can safely say that this is owing to the diligence of Mr. Con- stable Gwynn, who was recently appointed for that purpose. The amount distributed during the year was about ($5,442.42) five thousand four hundred and forty-two dollars and forty-two cents.

GREYNA.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The storm on Tuesday was the worst of the season, our farmers were beginning to think of the spring work, but this coming so close on the rain of last week sets them thinking. Our bridges throughout the municipality have been damaged considerably. The only one that stood the strain was the ice bridge to Deseronto; that one is all right, while the river ice is breaking up almost to the Big Bend.

Our sick in this locality are getting on favorably; we hope to see them all around again soon.

Our school has started again under the able management of Miss Jordan, of Richmond. She has the right method of teaching for our school as shown by the pupils going to work in earnest.

Mr. J. Rowson and family are preparing to leave this place for the old homestead in Tilsonburg, his native place. We are very sorry to lose them, as they will be greatly missed both in the church circle and the neighborhood. May our best wishes follow them.

Mr. C. Hough has quit the meat business and gone to splitting rails. He is going in for repairs.

MACDONALD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

News scarce, roads bad, times dull, quite a young winter, snow banks in some places as high as the fences.

On Monday last Mr. Nathan Miller crossed the ice with a horse and cutter; it was a dangerous drive.

Death has entered our midst for the first time this winter taking Miss Mary Joyce as its victim. She was buried on Sunday in the Bellamy cemetery.

Mr. Harvey Walters, of Belleville is the guest of Mr. Nicholas Gault for a few weeks getting the fresh air of the country. Mr. John Gault is also visiting his brother during the sugar making.

Mr. Gault has made a lot of the "sweet" already this spring, 25 gallons of syrup and 200 pounds of sugar.

Mr. Andy Burch has gone to join his open troupe in Cinetia.

The farmers have all got up nice wood piles for the summer's use.

Miss Martha Hamblay, Mrs. Woodcock, are on the sick list.

There was a very large turn-out to church on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Harbard's new house is about completed.

SHANNONVILLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. J. S. Kerr has again met with quite a loss, on Wednesday night of last week burglars entered the Masonic Hall which he is at present occupying as a store and carried off a large quantity of goods, consisting of three pieces of cotton, tea, tobacco about fifty pairs of boots and other articles amounting to nearly $300. The loss will be more severely felt, he having recently suffered heavily by fire.

The fire a few days ago did considerable damage to the saw mill owned by Mr. Wallbridge, it was feared at one time that it would be completely swept away, the water has now subsided and fears of further damage are somewhat allayed.

We regret to learn that our young friend, Mr. R. A. VanLaven, intends leaving here about the middle of May to try his fortune elsewhere, his loss to the Great Mill is a pitying about that time. Report says he will be succeeded by Mr. Win. Mayell, formerly of this place.

We learn that several weddings are spoken of as being on the tapis; would very much like to know who the contracting parties are.

We fail to understand the meaning of your Melrose correspondent in reference to the Literary Society keeping the young gentlemen from Shannonville, as one of them at least is seen here about as frequently as ever.

SERIOUS FIRE IN BELLEVILLE.

Belleville, April 6.—A serious fire occurred this morning in the Cronk Block, a brick building on the corner of Front and Hotel streets, which were situated the stores of A. Le Gen, druggist; J. W. Brown, merchant tailor, and John Gilbert, flour and feed. The upper portion of the part of the building was occupied by Miss Page, John St. Jean, and W. H. Ockerman, as a dwelling. The wind was blowing a gale and the fire, which originated over Gen's drug store, spread with such rapidity that but little could be saved. The firemen turned out promptly, but it took three hours of hard work before the fire was got under control. The block, which was owned by Jacob Cronk, was completely gutted, loss $10,000; insured for $6,000. Mr. Gen's loss was about $18,000; insured for $8,000 and $3,500. Mr. Brown was insured for $10,000 and $2,500. The loss of the other parties will amount to about $10,000, on which there is no insurance. The walls of the greater portion of the block fell during the day, doing some damage to the adjoining block, which is the property of Mr. J. C. Jamison. About one o'clock this afternoon the owners of the fire block set up again, and did some further damage to Mr. Jamison's building. The fire engines had to be sent out to extinguish the flame.

The admiral of Lord Island (Sir St. Northcote) collected $12,000, and thereafter has presented him with a silver pipe, four desert stands, and two candles.

After chasing a fox all day a party of eleven hunters from West Rutland, Mass., brought up at a hole. The dogs howled, and the hunters did not know where to go, and at last unearthed a woodchuck.

A clerk in Salem, Mass., bought two dollar tickets in the Lynn Grand Army lottery the other day, and gave one to a friend in payment of a dollar he owed him. This ticket drew a $1,000 United States bond.

The only American statesman whose name is familiar to the majority of English people are Washington, Lincoln, Grant, and Grant. Very few, comparatively, know who Gen. Lee was, and speaking generally, American history is never read.

Five years ago the two daughters of Paul Gosser of Sheboygan county, Wis., married and moved to Milwaukee. The other day Mr. Gosser asked for the girls. He said he had forgotten the names of their husbands, and had been looking in vain for them for two weeks.

M. L. La Comte of Clayton, Ga., after serving a sentence in the jail at Atlanta for violating the revenue laws, returned home and lived in his house as the helpless. His young wife in attempting to lift him from the bed to a chair, ruptured a blood vessel in his head, and he died in a few days and another six months old.

Mr. Rufus Fallow of Cranberry Plains, Conn., being troubled by ten thieves, set a big steel trap before the door of his house. The thieves came, and the trap caught them. Mr. Fallow endeavored to rearrange the straw over the trap. It caught him by the head and he was taken to prison until neighbors came to his aid.

Male newspapers report that game has been very abundant this winter in the well-wooded central district of the State. It is said that thirty-five caribou, for example, were lately seen making their way toward Mount Katladina, upon whose upper slopes these animals find a moss of which they are very fond.

A tipsy colored woman caused great excitement in the Hebrew quarter of St. Louis the other day by meddling about the street wearing a shawl "a la," a garment worn by orthodox Jews at morning prayers only. The woman would give no account of how she procured the garment, and had no idea of its sacred character.

Little Mike Connelly was bitten by a yellow dog some days ago. His mother said that the old cur was a fighter. She said the dog bit her were a preventive against hydrophobia, and so Mr. Connelly killed the yellow dog and bound the fangs and some of the teeth in a bag. Mike is doing well, with no signs of rabies.

David Stanton, Ohio's richest man, is a Scotch Irishman and grew up around the big firm of Pittsburgh. He began business as a clerk in a coal and iron store, then was a clerk in a blast furnace, afterward manager, and at last half owner. After that the advance in life was fast. He is worth $700,000, and gives largely to public charities.

Mr. Crouch of Randolph, Tenn., thoughtfully became engaged to two young ladies at the same time, and at the same time, one of them married him to his daughter's house at the end of a shotgun. There the young woman and her sister gave him a good hiding. He is now happily married to his wife and has a large family.

Maund, the twelve year old daughter of Dr. J. J. Wilson of Salem, Ind., arose in her sleep the other night and went to the street. Then she went back and stood at her own door fumbling with the lock. The door opened and she saw burglars were there, drew his pistol and when the door opened, shot. The ball struck Maund in the shoulder. It will not kill her, but it will ruin her through.

Persons who have a superstitious dread of Friday will not be pleased to learn that this is a thoroughly Friday year. It came in on a Friday, will go out on a Friday, and will have fifty-three Fridays. There are four months in the year that have five Fridays each; changes of the moon occur five times on a Friday, and the longest and shortest days of the year each fall on a Friday.

A. Wabash, Ind., farmer handed $25 to Archibald Stitt the other day and asked him to give it to his mother. He explained that thirty years ago, when Mr. Stitt's father was County Treasurer, he had been given a receipt in full for taxes when, in fact, he had paid $10 too little. The Treasurer had made good the deficit, and now the farmer wanted to use his conscience by paying $25 to the Treasurer's widow.

The champion hog that was killed in Ribesbach the other day in the presence of 3,000 persons, for weeks before his death had to be fed with a spoon. He was so fat that he could not feed himself, and so a small boy and a big iron spoon were employed. The boy had no success, for the hog ate the barrel of corn daily, but the boy learned to love the fat hog, and wept bitterly when he was slaughtered.

When the West Shore Railroad was being built one of the workmen had two fine St. Bernard dogs, which he kept at a shack on Eggs Point near Marlborough-on-the-Hudson. He went away unexpectedly in 1881, and never returned. The dogs remain, and now there is quite a large pack of them. They are fine, large fellows, very shy, but savage, and are known all along the river as the Wild Dogs of Eggs Point.

A young Swede makes a living in Boston by washing dogs. He goes from house to house in the fashionable quarters, and for fifty cents or seventy-five, according to the size of the dog, gives the pet thorough baths. It is said that the plan was the thought of a well-known and charitable woman. She wanted to help the poor, and her friends in the almshouse, and now he has about all the dog washing he can attend to.

One of the boarders in a fashionable boarding house was asked at finding that some one was smoking his favorite meerschaum pipe. So he looked it carefully with a mixture of powder and talcum powder to business. When he returned he received an emphatic expression of opinion from an elderly and estimable lady of the family whose face was so wrinkled that it was covered with powder marks. As for the pipe that had totally disappeared.

Twenty-five years ago a young Scotchman named Garrick went to Australia, leaving his wife behind him. After some years he heard that he was dead, and came to Scotland with his little son, and there married a young woman. The Scotchman, however, who had not died, returned to Scotland with a nice little fortune and began to live in a quiet way. Two years ago he received a letter from him, and a week ago she joined him in Hamilton, and they were again regularly and lawfully married.

The Baptists of Georgia are rejoicing over their capture of Chief Justice O. A. Lohr, for years an Episcopalian. He is an active prohibitionist, and was therefore thrown much in the office of the Rev. Dr. J. B. Hawthorne, a Baptist pulpit orator of local fame. After the election which was thorough victory for the prohibitionists, the preacher went with the Judge to his home, where wine casks and bottles were rolled out to the streets and emptied. In a few days Judge Lohr will be in the hands of the law.

An English clergyman, the Rev. Freeman Wills, vicar of St. Agatha's, Fishery are now has set going three butcher shops in London, to supply the poor with good and wholesome meat at reasonable prices, and has demonstrated that he can make a profit upon selling not only American beef and New Zealand mutton, at figures averaging 20 per cent. less than those demanded by the rogues who sell the same quality of meat. Local butchers in competition with his shops have had to make large reductions in their prices. The Rev. gentleman is a brother of Mr. W. G. Wills, the dramatist.

Jack Osborne, a Wyandott hunter, and his dog had a hard chase after a big otter the other day. The dog, who was celebrated as an otter killer, at length caught the otter to a deep pool, well from over a couple of air holes. Both animals disappeared through the hole, and by and by the dog's nose slowly to the surface. Jack pulled him out, but he had fought his last fight. The otter's teeth and the struggle in the water were too much for him. His master went to the pool and dragged the dead body of the otter to land, and seeing it, the old dog crawled up, and laying his head on the body, quietly died.

The agricultural statistics of Great Britain for 1885, which have been recently issued, show very serious decrease from the year of 1884 in some of the most important food products. The decrease in wheat is estimated at 2,025,000 bushels, in peas at 398,568 bushels, in beans 2,610,783 bushels, in potatoes, 54,699 tons, in turnips 6,562,497 tons, and mangold 57,869 tons. In England and Ireland, on the other hand, there has been an increase over 1884 amounting to 197,016 bushels of wheat 135,386 tons of potatoes, 43,539 tons of turnips, and 60,253 tons of mangold. Both England and Ireland have shown an increase in the production of barley, amounting to 338,619 bushels in the former country and 403,998 in the latter. From barley is made malt and from malt, ale, so that, though food may be somewhat scarcer and consequently dearer, there need be no dread of a lack of drink.

COGITATIONS.

The first problem that a newly-elected official has to solve is how to put 100 pigs in ten holes.

Make soap while the bone lasts.

Half our troubles are merely annoyances. There is apparently no hope at all for the wicked when even the good get left occasionally.

It is not what you take in but what you don't put out that makes you rich.

Promises are virtually falsehoods until they are fulfilled.

Some rich people find amusement by imagining they are poor, but there is mighty little enjoyment in a poor man imagining he is rich.

KEEPING 100 MEN AT BAY.

A Murderer with a Mischief Running Fight with His Parents.

H. O. Steadman, a prominent farmer of Hart county, proprietor of two creameries near the village of Lyons, the other day charged Edward Johnson, alias John Anderson, a young man and a comparative stranger in the neighborhood, Johnson the murderer, with a murder. Two weeks ago, without giving warning, he pulled out a revolver and shot Steadman in the bowels, causing death in a short time. Two weeks ago he received a letter from him, and a week ago she joined him in Hamilton, and they were again regularly and lawfully married.

A later despatch says: During the day he fatally wounded Edgar Everett, and seriously wounded one of his sons. As he had food and milk in the barn, it was impossible to starve him out. It was therefore determined to burn him out, and this plan was carried into execution at 5:30 in the evening.

When Wright was that escape was impossible he fired twenty or thirty shots at the crowd, no one being wounded, however. The crowd, which entirely surrounded the barn, fired volley after volley from Winchester rifles from all sides on the spot in the barn where they supposed Wright to be. When the fire was extinguished it was found that his head had been almost shot away, but his body was full of bullets. His legs and arms were burned off. He was buried near by. All the wounded are doing well and will soon recover, except E. Everett, whose death is expected at any moment.

The loss by the burning of the barn is $5,000, which will be paid by the county or by contributions. The property belonged to Charles R. Johnson, one of the murderers' victims.

Wright was a comparative stranger in the neighborhood, but it is believed that he was some notorious outlaw or cowboy desperado, as he had been captured upon the head of a Texas cow captured upon it. It is believed that he was wounded in the leg by his parents before he sought refuge in the barn, otherwise he would have attempted to escape on a fresh horse from the barn.

THE ABANDONED SCHOONER.

A Mystery of the Great Lakes.

An old lake captain relates the following remarkable occurrence. It is true I was not the laker, but I was present upon the scene. I was on the lake for twenty-five years, and I've met with some things that have staggered me. Perhaps the strangest of all was the loss of the crew of the James-town.

"Take affair took place in 1887, during the coldest and hurler of winter, and the circumstance was speedily forgotten under the press of other matters. At that time I was on the lake for twenty-five years, and I've met with some things that have staggered me. Perhaps the strangest of all was the loss of the crew of the James-town.

"I was the laker for twenty-five years, and I've met with some things that have staggered me. Perhaps the strangest of all was the loss of the crew of the James-town. The James-town belonged somewhere on the Ohio shore of Lake Erie—about Painesville, I think. It was the laker for twenty-five years, and I've met with some things that have staggered me. Perhaps the strangest of all was the loss of the crew of the James-town.

"About 10 o'clock, with the wind so light that the schooner lifted now and then on a long wave, and everybody aboard except the mate, lookout, and a man at the wheel had turned in, the voice of the lookout was heard shouting:

"Part! part! There's a schooner dead ahead of us! Over with her; heave!"

"The man at the wheel pulled her up, and her head went around slowly, and next moment we rubbed alongside of a craft so close that any of us could have jumped aboard of her. I was on deck as she came abreast of us, and I ran to the port side, followed by three or four of the crew, and called out to know what she was doing with a light in the rigging. She hadn't even a light in her furnace, and all aboard was in a state of confusion. She had all sail set, and as true as I sit here she was sailing dead in the eye of the wind, and she was sailing justly, and though we hailed again and again not a human being showed himself. She hadn't passed us more than two lengths when she rolled over on her side, and she seemed to lose her way. I know we weren't making a mile an hour, and so you may reason that what sailing was done was performed by the strange craft, and that dead to windward."

"Well, sir, as they lay after passing us the mate came running up and slugs out that everything aboard of her must be asleep or dead, and it seemed the proper thing to drop the yawl into the water and boiler. I was sailing so, however, we bailed her several times at the top of our voices without getting an answer. I took the boat and two men and pulled over to the schooner. The plankton knew the schooner's overboard, and I had to get up by the fore chains. I took a lantern with me, and one of the fellows climbed over the side with me while the other held the yawl fast. We found everything as ship shape as you please, every rope coiled down, and every hayrack made fast in sailor fashion. There wasn't a sign of a struggle on deck, no more could you discover any evidence that the crew had left in a hurry. The yawl was missing, but the curious thing about it was the fact it had been hauled up by itself on the board. This would have been the case, you know, if the boat had been lowered in a hurry and brought alongside."

"We made a dive into the fo'c'stles, but found no one. The men's bags were there, and nothing had been taken. We visited the cabin, but with the same result. Clinging hung on the hooks, and everything looking as if Captain and mate had just stepped on deck. We examined the purty, but there were no signs that food had been taken away. Here was a vessel on a calm sea, with every rope in its place, and on board I found myself growing more and more convinced as we looked her over. Had she sprung a leak? I didn't believe it, because she had the buoyant rig of a dry vessel, but we pulled off a hatch and descended. She was as dry as a bone."

"I had recognized the craft long before this as the James-town, and knew her Captain to be a man named Charles Day. She carried six men before the mast, and there was Captain, mate, and cook to make the complement nine. When we had hauled from top to bottom without finding a soul aboard I just felt my hair rising to stand on end, and a cold chill coming up my spine. The man with me was completely unnerved, and I had to use his eyes good and stout to keep him from running away."

"Here was a big chance for salvage, as you can see, and I called the other man aboard and we took in all sail. We then got her hauled over the bows, pulled her head around, and took it aboard of the Flying Cloud. With any sort of decent weather a doctor or two could have got her into Tawas or Port Austin. When it came to putting a man aboard at her wheel, not one of my crew would go, so no more was to be said. I had therefore decided to go myself in case a breeze sprang up, when what should come booming down upon us but a white squall. It caught us as a lightning bolt, and we escaped by the skin of our teeth. When we got time to draw breath and look around the James-town in the distance, the lower hull having snapped, and she was not seen again by mortal eyes."

"I reported the case, of course, and it was soon known all around the lake, but I'm telling you, sir, that the schooner not only passed out of sight forever, but neither the crew nor the vessel has been heard from to this day. They were looked after by tugs and other craft, and the shores were watched for months, but all in vain."

Allan Arthur, the son of the ex-President, is said to be the most skilled amateur bass player in the United States.

Mme. Marianne Leveillé, who died recently at St. Michael de Yamaska, N. B., at the advanced age of 91 years, left 619 children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Mary Grant Cramer, sister of General Grant, is lecturing in Massachusetts under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Queen Pia of Portugal is said to be the best dressed lady in Europe. She is the youngest daughter of the late King Victor Emmanuel, and of course belongs to the upper crust.

Vice Chancellor Bacon has lately celebrated his 88th birthday anniversary, and still holds his place on the English bench with undiminished elegance, soundness and grasp of facts.

Mr. Jennie Lind Goldschmidt confesses that she has kept her organs in tune for twenty-five years by yelling at her children.

The old Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief of the British army, and cousin of her Majesty the Queen, is fond of attending races and making after-dinner speeches.

Dr. Farrand, of Charleston, W. Va., was 100 years old on the first day of March. He is hale old man, walks about the city alone and reads without glasses. He was once a well-known Philadelphia physician.

The wife of the late Prince Pjanytel is slinging in beer houses in Vienna for a living, the Prince's relations having disowned her.

A celebrated Italian actress and singer, Bianca Bonadio, intends to take the veil. She belongs to a devout Pader family, and during her stay in Florence, where she has been lately acting, she sent all the flowers given to her on the stage to the churches.

How good it is to belong to the royal family of Sax-Coburg! The young Braganza-Orientale couple are to have a pension of $210,000 a year from the Portuguese royal list. The late Don Fernando had $100,000 a year.

Stories of Ludwig II., of Bavaria, and his splendid follies continue to occupy the gossip. The latest story is to a mysterious death of marvelous beauty, where King Ludwig loved to sit and gaze at once on pictures of life, love and beauty.

Marquis de Aguilafuente, a Spanish nobleman, has been recognized by the Mexican Government as a descendant of the Aztec Emperor Montezuma II., and has been granted a pension of $1,400,000 to be paid him during his lifetime.

Jonas Henri Comenius, who claims to have been the first electrical telegraph inventor, is now 72 years old, with abundant white hair and beard and bushy eyebrows, stooping shoulders and slow step, but his sight is good, his voice firm and his hand steady.

A wonderful Chinese boy is mentioned in the report of a missionary at Peking. At a recent examination he was asked to write New Testament without missing a single word or making one single mistake. He was so committing to memory Dr. Martin's "Evidences of Christianity."

The Emperor of Germany does not like the piano, but he was exceedingly complimentary the other day to the pianist who accompanied the distinguished statesman. The pianist knew the Emperor's aversion to his instrument, and played extremely piano. "You," said his Majesty, "at least know how to play piano. I scarcely heard the piano while you were accompanying the violinist."

Every newly-created British baron pays the sum of £300 for his titular honor, and this sum, instead of going to the treasury, is paid to the baron who is raised to a peer. The named baronial office is now paid into the general treasury. The total arising from this source is considerable, especially as a baron who is raised to a peer in the age also pays something over a hundred pounds for his promotion, whilst newly-created barons have to hand over to the exchequer upwards of £150.

Mrs. Henri Greville, the French novelist, lecturing on "The Peasants and Priests in Russia," at New York, the other day, said: "A man becomes a priest in Russia only by marrying the wife of the priest who he had to resign. A priest can marry but once and when his wife dies must resign for the priest or go into a monastery. Thus the priests' wives are the happiest and best cared for women in Russia. The lower classes of priests are but poorly educated. Having never read an sermon they preach it over and over, the service being held but once a year."

President John King, who was put into the Erie Railway to save it, has the face, the figure, and the eye of a paragon. He is fat. He has the Hebrew nose and mouth, and his clothes are as loose and shabby as any shabby as the garments of the successful second-hand, old clothes man who has handed over his business to another generation. "John King is a railroad man," is the best phrase I know of. It comes from his long career of book-keeping. His letters are beautiful samples of a lost art. He could, if he chose, write cards to a hotel corridor and sell them. There is no person in all the thousands of clerks in the Erie employ who could keep a neater set of books than his President."

Professor James Russell Lowell, whom Emerson and other good judges have voted the greatest American poet, is probably at the best pronounced of English. It is not likely that he has a superior in England, and he is a very particular about these things. He says statueque for statue, and does not say France or France for France. He says low for low, and low for low. He has been very particular about these things, because the length or brevity of a vowel is the very essence of poetry, and the reason of the great pronouns and correct accents are more fully learned from good poetry than from ordinary prose. It is worth a long letter to Mr. Dr. Holmes or Mr. Lowell read their own poems. Dr. Holmes is specially good at reading his poems. Mr. Lowell is reading his serious poems.

NEWSPAPER PERSONALS.

One of the pleasant features of modern journalism is the introduction of society events and the personal as the brief mention of individuals is termed. Formerly it was only persons of high distinction whose movements were noticed in this way; now persons of ordinary consideration on the honor of a personal mention. When this practice was first introduced, many of our papers denigrated it as unbecomingly; but it has since become prominent topics of newspaper comment, and this kind of information is as largely sought after, by ladies especially, as anything which the columns of our papers contain. Society news forms an important feature of our leading metropolitan journals as well as of the rural press. In the anxiety of some of our journalists to cater to the depraved taste of their readers, some unprincipled editors have allowed private scandal to ventilate itself in the pages of their papers; but those who value the character of their paper will never be willing to sacrifice its reputation for the sake of selling a few extra copies, by obtaining into private scandal unless it has obtained public notoriety elsewhere. This new feature of journalism enhances the value of the paper to absent friends. It gives home doings, which to them, isolated from home, are of more importance than public affairs. If it is not profitable or improving to the mind, it has its advantage over the records of crime with which the columns of the papers are filled, it does not deteriorate public morals.

COMMUNICATIONS.

LONSDALE BRIDGE.

To the Editor of the Tribune.

DEAR SIR:—I beg to draw attention to the present condition of the Lonsdale Bridge. During the winter the north span of the bridge was filled in, the work being done by Mr. Francis, the County Surveyor. Part of the wall on the west side has fallen and the centre of the road which was to be a gradual incline from the old part to the planking of the bridge, has sunk nearly two feet leaving the approach to the bridge in a very bad condition. It was understood that the job was to be done by tender. Mr. Donald McLauchlan tendered for it. His tender was not accepted being considered too high and it is stated that it actually cost more than his tender. However that may be, it is best known to the authorities, but where such jobs are undertaken by the county they ought to be done in a satisfactory manner. Our respected First Deputy Reeve, Mr. Francis West, must often pass over this bridge and we hope that he will have the matter set right at once.

OUR STREETS.

To the Editor of the Tribune.

DEAR SIR:—With the opening of spring we shall have the least of legal, inasmuch as the mandate enjoining all citizens to clean up all refuse that has accumulated during the winter and to remove it to the place appointed. They will warn us that on a given day the inspectors will be around to see if their instructions have been carried out, and if not, the offenders will have to meet the painful penalties due to disobedience, as they as well as these measures are necessary for the health of the inhabitants. Well, Sir, I will not contest this point, and being an advocate for obedience to lawful authority, will clean up my own premises and advise my neighbors to do the same. But what I want to call your attention to, and through your columns the attention of those in authority, is the filthy condition of our streets. Much stagnant water, refuse from houses, decaying vegetable matter, dead cats, with every other description of filth, compose the surface material of our streets. Now, Sir, if it is an sanitary grounds that we clean our back yards, I appeal on the same grounds for the cleaning of our streets, as the thing of the one and the leaving of the other undone won't tend to the health of the town; so that we shall still be victims of malaria, typhoid and other diseases. Then, again, look at the drainage system of the town. We have drains, it is true, but for the most part they are useless, no attention having been paid to taking off the surface water. As an illustration, take the Main-street drain. When we have a storm, or at the break-up of winter the water from St. George street runs over the drain and floods the sidewalk. Pass on to Mill-street: there it is worse, the water there almost forms a torrent rushing over the railway track to the front of the factory, making the road almost impassable, and leaving the locality no better than a fever swamp. And yet this water could be conveyed into the drain by means of two gratings. I commend these matters to the collectors, the members of town council, hoping they will take action, so that when they come before us for a renewal of confidence, we shall be able to judge them by their words and support them for their works, and you, Mr. Editor, please continue to remind them of these matters as frequently as possible.

Large quantities of charcoal of a superior quality continue to be manufactured and shipped from the Chemical Works.

Mr. Thos. Pigen has returned from Campbellford and will be found at his old post in the yard department this morning.

Gravel is being spread over lower Mill street and on the road from the Machine Shops to the Flour Mills back to the improvement of those thoroughfares.

Mr. Wm. Mitchell is pushing toward the new building at the stable dock near the refuse boilers. The new structure will be 340 feet in length; 30 feet wide and 37 feet in height.

On Saturday last Chief Gwynn could be seen with his coat of building a chimney at his residence in the east end with a dexterity which even a Conley or Booth might envy.

Mr. John Waters, of Flower Terrace, has had pansies in bloom in the open air for the past three weeks. When we consider the weather of the past few weeks this is indeed an event worthy of being chronicled.

Conductor Coughlin on Wednesday brought in fifteen heavily laden cars and the passenger coach, or the equivalent of seven cars, the largest train ever brought over the Bay of Quinte Railway. It was a very large load for such a small engine.

The library of the Mechanics Institute is now open every afternoon after the usual hour. Miss Millie Anderson, the assistant librarian, will in future give out books to members on that day.

As after 6 p. m. the streets are generally crowded with pedestrians, it is suggested that it would be advisable for juveniles to withdraw both themselves and their tricycles from the sidewalks after that hour.

Miss Maybent, at one time connected with the Deseronto Public Schools, has resigned her position in the Market School, Belleville, to accept the vacancy in the Deaf and Dumb Institute, caused by the resignation of Miss Sawyer.

If you are afflicted with Rheumatism call on W. G. Egan, druggist, immediately and procure a bottle of "Winn's Kidney Syrup" or Family Liniment, it is a certain and positive cure. It is infallible for Sprains, Cuts, Bruises, Scalds and all diseases requiring external application. Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle.

A Spahnburg "taxpayer" in a communication to the Pictou Times, favors the construction of a railway from Pictou to Deseronto, as he is convinced it would prove a great benefit to Prince Edward. He favors a ferry at the light house instead of a bridge at Deseronto. But ferries are too slow in this age and are everywhere being displaced by bridges.

Mr. W. W. Carter, as will be seen by advertisement, will make a great display of fine beef during the Easter holidays. Being desirous of securing the very best article he went recently to Toronto where he purchased seventeen head of choice cattle, fed by the most celebrated cattle men of Western Ontario. These cattle have been much admired, and it will be worth while to call and see the Easter display at Mr. Carter's shop next Friday. Orders should be sent in immediately to ensure attention.

Mr. Joseph Piccoli, of the Indian Reserve, has brought into this office a natural curio, which has for a few days been attracting the attention of a host of observers, all of whom aver they never saw its like before. It is a russet animal, from one end of the stem of which a young eagle is growing, deriving its nourishment from the old appendage. The new specimen is well formed and shaped and still flourishes. Mr. Piccoli found it in his collar and was immediately struck with the wonderful curiosity he had discovered.

Advice to Mothers.—Are you disturbed at night and broken your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cut teeth? If so send at once and get a bottle of "Winn's Kidney Syrup" for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon its merits, for there is no mistake about it. It cures Diphtheria and Diarrhoea, Colic, the Stomach and Bowels, cures all the troubles of the young, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winn's Kidney Syrup" for children is the prescription of one of the oldest and ablest medical physicians and nurses in the United States, and is the only medicine that is sold in a bottle. Price twenty cents a bottle. He sure and ask for "Mrs. Winn's Kidney Syrup," and take no other kind.

NEXT Sunday is Palm Sunday
The Indies of Deseronto are all in favor of home rule.

CHEAP rule books and blank books at the Tribune office.

The Deseronto Dramatic Association have been invited to give "The Lady of Lyons" in Pictou at an early date.

It is said to say that no such mud as is to be seen on Fourth-street has ever mud found outside the limits of Toronto.

This Shanawansing papers think that the Rathbun Company Bunt are "rubbish" to be looking so far ahead for an excursion.

The Boundary and other roads in the vicinity are in a frightful condition. All travellers admit that such roads could not be found outside of Lenoxx or Haatings.

Perfect soundness of body and mind is possible only with pure blood. Leading Medical authorities endorse Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best blood-purifying medicine in existence. It vastly increases the working and productive powers of both hand and brain.

The funeral of Mrs. Archibald Lindsay took place last Sunday forenoon. Religious services were conducted at St. Mark's Church, by Rev. Rural Dean Stanton. The remains were then brought to Shanawansing for interment in the cemetery in that village.

The baseball season has already set in, several well contested matches having been played last Sunday in the vacant lots just west of the town. It looks as if Sunday Schools were to have considerable competition during the coming season.

No intelligent workman or mechanic can afford to be without a daily newspaper in this progressive age. You can get a good daily paper at this Tribune office for one cent a day; or three cents a day; for sixteen or fifteen cents a week; for twenty-five, thirty-five, or sixty cents a month.

REV. D. O. Crossley has made arrangements with the Deseronto Navigation Company to carry the ministers and delegates attending the Methodist Conference in Pictou in June at reduced rates. About three hundred and fifty are expected to attend.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills are suited to every age. Being sugar-coated they are easy to take, and though mild and pleasant in action, are strong and effective in effect.

Their efficacy in all disorders of the stomach and bowels is certified to by eminent physicians, and many of our best citizens.

The Minister of Education has set apart the first Friday in May as Arbor Day for the purpose of planting shade trees, making flower beds, and otherwise beautifying and improving the school grounds. It will, no doubt, be loyally observed by school boards and teachers in all districts of the Province.

Benjamin Gilbert, of Sidney, planted a willow tree in front of his house 34 years ago. At the time of planting the tree measured one inch in diameter. Last week he was obliged to cut it down, and measuring it, found that it measured 2 feet 10 inches in diameter, the circumference being 8 feet 6 inches.

For 25c the Weekly Globe will be sent to any address in Canada, Great Britain or the United States for three months. For $1.25 the Evening Globe will be sent for three months, and in addition the Weekly for the balance of the year. Subscriptions received at this Tribune office.

COMPLAINTS have been lodged at this office in reference to the unseemly conduct of a number of young men, who are congregating at the corner of Mill and Main-street.

It is said that the insulting remarks which they addressed to ladies passing, by were of the most outrageous character last Sunday evening. The Chief has taken the matter in hand and will apply the needful remedy.

A gigantic lawsuit will soon occupy the Courts below. Messrs Wm. Coo, of the village, and S. J. Ritchie, et al. of the Mill Mining Company. Mr. Coo sues Ritchie for $50,000, amount due for the purchase of the Mill mine, and Ritchie returns the compliment to Mr. Coo with a suit for $500,000 for alleged wrong information regarding the resources of the above mine before the purchase took place.

—Madre Review.

Gladsdale, Healy, Churchill, Harrington and others, grappled with the mighty question of the trial in special sessions varying from twenty minutes to three hours in length. Our own Blake and Thompson, the Hon. Owen and Rykert, can speak any day from four to six hours on such trifling matters as the appointment of a postmaster or the execution of a madman.

English orators cannot compete with their Canadian brethren.

The record recently won by Mr. Thomas Johnston's hens has not yet been beaten so far as the number of eggs in one day. Mr. John Prickett is the happy owner of some fowls which, if the size of hen fruit is taken into consideration, will be hard to beat; at least, we should judge so by a specimen he has placed on our editorial table. It measures 7 1/2 inches one way and over 6 inches the other. Mr. Prickett is confident that when his hen realize the near approach of Easter they can easily produce eggs of even more colossal dimensions than the aforesaid specimen.

The coming season promises to be an eventful one in local aquatic circles. Every where you hear the hum of busy preparation.

The Deseronto Boat Club is now in the water. The Boat Club especially presents a very busy appearance these evenings, all the members being out on the water.

There are now about eighteen boats in the house and new accessions are arriving every day.

Messrs. Dawes and Hoggarty are putting for business on the famous "Jambouree" the subject of many a classic lay. The "Arrow" owned by Mr. E. A. Thompson is being sailed by Mr. E. A. Thompson.

The "Fireway" which carried off Mrs. M. D. Campbell, the first of the sailing and rowing races last year, has also been gorgeously painted and she too changes her name to the "Confident" and will sail under the command of Mr. Taylor, of Flour Mill fame, is also fitting up his boat in fine style.

The Deseronto regatta are also undergoing repairs. Mr. Thos. Mallory has purchased Mr. Hoppes' racing shell and as a consequence the Deseronto regatta will be in the hands of Mr. Hoppes and his crew.

Messrs. Campbell and Roach already begin to fade. It is a good thing to see our young men evincing such interest in all these mainly quiet.

Easter Sunday, April 25th.

For Ladies' morning Wraps see the new French Percale and Foulards at The Big Store.

The Napane Express has been sold to Mr. C. D. Drevory who takes possession on Monday next.

The Kingston papers refer in flattering terms to Rev. Mr. Crossley's sermons and song services.

The Ladies' Missionary Association of the Church of the Redeemer intend holding a Fancy Fair on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 18th and 19th of May.

The grand finale of the musical bull-dog-fight all ears on Wednesday evening for the first time this season. Hall, basement warbler.

SPECIAL Easter Services are being prepared, and will be conducted in the Methodist Church on Easter Sunday both morning and evening.

The Churchwardens of St. Mark's Church request that all accounts against the Church be cleared to Mr. John McCullough before the 21st inst.

Mr. Samuel Croft, Florist to H. B. Rathbun Esq., will have a Choice lot of Plants for sale at The Big Store, Monday next 19th inst. Don't fail to see them.

We hear that the members of the Deseronto Canal and Boating Club intend having sailing and rowing races semi-monthly during the season, and that some trophies will be presented by members for competition in these matches.

"A Glimpse at the Hub" is the subject of a lecture to be delivered under the auspices of the M. L. Society in the parlour of the Church of the Redeemer this (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock. Admission, free; collection at the close. This is the last public meeting of the season.

The Presbyterian Sunday School Concert will be repeated next Tuesday evening. There will be a change of programme. The last effort was of a pleasing character, and that a large number have made a request for its repetition. The singing and character songs of the children will be found deeply interesting.

It is said that the sawdust piles to the west of the town are nightly the resort of a number of disolute characters of both sexes, who will be the cause of much vexation and suppression. The Indian Council and our own authorities should unite and purge the community of the presence of these offenders.

Large quantities of cedar and other lumber have been coming in by rail to the Cedar Mill, from the line of the Central Ontario & Q. B. Railways. Sixty loads of cedar of this lumber could be counted at the Deseronto Junction last Friday. The day of Quilway rail men had their hands full disposing of these cars as they arrived.

Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule bill has passed its first reading without a division. The second reading will take place on the 6th of May. The new measure is meeting with great opposition but there is now little room for doubts of its being carried through the house of commons. In any event it is a very early day to be conceded to Ireland.

The Dominion Business College, Kingston, is now undoubtedly the leading institution of that kind in Canada. Its principal, Mr. J. H. McLean, states that the Deseronto boys in attendance are among the best students in the college; that they are a credit to the school, and that they came to this is a most satisfactory statement. We understand that some more of our young men and women contemplate taking a course at this excellent institution.

From the Post Master General's Report we learn that for the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1885, the gross revenue from sale of postage stamps, &c., at the Deseronto post office was $3,280.39, and the expense of salaries, &c., were $920. For some of the neighboring towns and villages the figures are as follows:—Napane, $5,718 and $2,240; Pictou, $4,382 and $1,840; Trenton, $3,864 and $1,320; Shanawansing, $4,675 and $2,111; Northport, $2,922 and $1,010; Marysville, $1,608 and $70; Londale, $1,224 and $60; Melrose, $81 and $40; Rosedale $104 and $35.

Mr. Norman Williams was the victim of an unfortunate accident on Wednesday afternoon. He was assisting in raising some of the frame of the new structure at the stable dock, when a bent fell crushing and fracturing his leg just below the knee. Dr. Clinton reduced the fracture, and the sufferer, one of our most respected and industrious citizens, is now recovering from his injuries. He had taken out a policy in one of Mr. McCullough's companies two weeks ago, a fortunate thing under the circumstances.

Mr. William Hart, of the Big Store, went to Belleville to spend the week-end with his friend, Mr. Jas. Mills, of that city. Whilst in the yard after breakfast he slipped and fell, fracturing his left arm two or three inches below the shoulder joint. Dr. Burdette was called in and reduced the fracture and Dr. Clinton also went up from Deseronto to attend the patient. Mr. Stoddart, who is unnecessary to say, has the sympathy of every Belleville man, and will endeavor from the injury received. He arrived home in Deseronto on Wednesday and is receiving favorable attention, and expects to be up in a week or two. Mr. Mills and family were unwearingly in their kind attentions to him.

The Deseronto Masonic fraternity, of which Mr. J. H. McLean is the Master, of that city, were also most anxious in their efforts to minister to his comfort.

THE FALLS AT NAPANEE.

Stand and watch the waters. As they fall in scintillating foam; And I think of the created billows. That break on the shore at home.

At home in that distant island. That lies in a Western sea. Whose shores are washed by the Ocean. That rolls in untamed and free.

And there is the sunny brightness. That rests on a Tropic shore; And there the home of my childhood. I shall visit never more.

The Passion flowers are blooming. In that fair southern land; And the bright blue waves are dancing. As they beat on the smooth white strand.

And I stand where the twilight lingers. All aflame in the Ocean's breast; And the Sun in gorgeous splendor. Sinks now 'neath the Ocean's crest.

I can smell the breath of the flowers. As I stand in the sunset glow; And deep are the thoughts that move me As I think of the long ago.

I remember the days of childhood. The home where I saw the light; Ah! there is the Southern splendor. And the perfumed Tropic night.

Not the cold dawn of the Winter. But the faint white freezing snow; But the languid air of a Southern land. Where the Orange and Citron grow.

Not the numbing power of hail and sleet. That fall on the heart like lead; But sunshine, warmth, and sweet perfume. From odorous blossoms shed.

The land of adoption is fair and cold. That fall on the heart like lead; But sunshine, warmth, and sweet perfume. From odorous blossoms shed.

But fairest on earth is the Isle of my birth; With its bright blue skies above. S. D.

MANITOWA.

From our own Correspondent.

DEAR EDITOR.—It is some time since I sent any notes from the west to your paper. In the winter it seemed as if there was not much to write. It is different now. The spring has come in early and fine and the progress of the summer will be interesting.

The winter has been very moderate in this province. Indeed with the exception of the untimely frost on the 23rd and 24th of August, the weather for the past twelve months was very fine. Seeing last spring began early, favorable, showery weather continued during the growing months.

When harvest came showers ceased, and we had continuous sunny days for weeks and months. Such a time for harvesting, threshing and marketing would be difficult to find in any country. Enjoyable weather continued through November and December. We had our sharp snaps in January, but they did not continue long.

The last week of February was blustering and stormy. We had no rain during the winter and no severe storm of snow. It is seldom that more than two inches of snow falls here at one time. But what does fall remains until spring, and even then there is not much depth on the prairie. This season we had some sunny days in February. The only drawback to the winter was that the snow was so hard by sun and wind. On the fifth of April many began seeding. There was too much frost at night to be able to work in the morning, but after a few hours of sun the surface was ready. Sometimes the harrows teeth touched the frost beneath, which was only two or three inches down on Monday the fifth.

All the week was sunny and seeding was the general work by the 7th and 8th. Farmers having from 150 to 250 acres to crop, which in some cases was more, would have three and four teams at work with seeders and harrows. I am writing on Monday the 12th, and I suppose if this week should continue as sunny as last wheat growing will be well through with, and farmers can go on more leisurely with oats, barley and potatoes.

The only drawback to last year was the early frost, and the damage by it was not ruinous as at first feared. The fine harvest weather following caused the crops to be secured in the best possible manner in every other respect. Markets during the winter were pretty good, so that all qualities were taken, prices ranging at even with the frost to 80 for wheat escaped. And farmers say that 50 cents per bushel will pay as well here as one dollar in Ontario. As it was the crops brought a very considerable amount of money into the country, and even the Brandon merchants are willing to admit that they did a very fair winter's business.

It is very early seen and even with the unusually early frosts of the last two or three years the farmers are steadily advancing in comfort as a rule. They are raising abundance of pork, poultry, eggs and butter, and beef is getting plentiful every year.

The country is rapidly conquering the people. Many who came just for a year or two now find themselves so allied to the country that they cannot leave it. And with a measure of surprise they will admit, as if they didn't know how it came about, that their places here have become homes, as real and sacred and difficult to part with as their old homes. It is amusing to observe those who come just to see the prairie land and to speculate and experiment a little, but who really intend to stay, and who provincial politics forming Liberal and Conservative Associations, and with a suppressed sigh allowing their friends to nominate them for Manitoba P.P.'s. Single men and women too who came to teach school or other work, that they could easily give up when they got home, fell in love—which they didn't intend to do in this country—married and have babes, and are more amused than sorry to think of those children, in consequence of the real natives of the land. It is no use to talk of this country as being an experiment. The wonder is that it was left so long undiscovered, but since possessed it never can be relinquished. Men may come and go, seasons may be more or less favorable or unfavorable—travelers may tell wonderful tales for or against it, but the country is a solid, serious and grand reality.

NAVIGATION NOTES.

The breeze of last Friday morning broke up the ice bridge and thus opened up navigation. The sloop Monitor was the first craft to enter our port having arrived on Sunday. The Tippecanoe started for the Pictou route on Monday morning being the first steamer to plow the waters of the bay.

The barge Belle Wilson was the first vessel to go up the bay to Belleville having passed on Monday afternoon. The Hero came up from Kingston on Tuesday and navigated a novel route for the season.

The sloop Monitor was the first vessel to clear from the port with a cargo. The Pilot also cleared on Tuesday.

The Proctor made her first trip to Pictou on Tuesday. She has been fitted up with a new wheel and otherwise improved, and Capt. Porter, her popular commander, has no doubt of his ability to show a clean pair of heels to any steamer on the bay.

The tug Boone is ready for the work of the season. She has been fitted up with a new shaft and wheel and a new cylinder, the latter being increased in size from 12 to 14 inches. Capt. John Kowe, one of the best known navigators on the bay, will be in command this year, and Mr. McFarrell will be engineer.

The Resolute cleared for Oswego on Tuesday evening with a load of railway ties. This fine vessel has been overhauled during

Some one disposed person or persons had considerable damage to a boat belonging to Arthur Hart of this place; he offers a reward of $10 to any person giving information that will lead to the discovery of said parties.

The store which Mr. Doreen has been erecting on the site of the one recently burned is now completed and will be ready for Mr. Kerr to take possession of this week.

Our lessee of this week is apparently on the increase as we noticed L. E. Mills, hardware merchant, sending out a travelling wagon on Monday morning last, and Mr. Hill, baker, starting a bread wagon.

The fears that were entertained a few days ago in regard to the damlet sweeping away the saw-mill were not altogether groundless as a part of it has since fallen away.

We are pleased to find that our esteemed friend Mr. C. S. Van Loven has so far recovered his health as to allow him to again resume his business at the Grift Mill.

Mr. Michael McInnis has left for Buffalo.

Mr. Thomas Murphy has left for Ottawa to resume his studies at the College.

Miss Barry, of Hastings, who has been visiting her sister Mrs. Daniel Macleay for some time past left for Belleville on Tuesday.

The Rev. Father McCarthy has been to Kingston during the week. This being Holy Week all the clergy of the diocese have been attending the ceremonies of the church year here to this season at the Cathedral.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the office of "Tribuna" was performed and on Holy Thursday there was high mass after which the blessing of the holy oils took place.

Last Sunday being Palm Sunday the ceremony of blessing the palms took place in congregation at the Lord's Entry into Jerusalem.

This is the last week of the holy season of Lent, next Sunday being Easter day. This year there were forty-six days in Lent owing to the full of the Paschal moon taking place last Sunday, the Sunday after being Easter day.

Last Friday Mr. B. Conners of the fourth concession was cutting wood, his brother-in-law Mr. James Barry of Hastings was assisting him and by some means his right hand came in contact with the saw while in motion and was badly cut. Tender and willing hands bound up the injured hand, which was subsequently dressed by the doctors.

At latest accounts he was getting on well and no serious consequences were expected.

We are informed that a commission in the Ontario legislature is about being issued to enquire into the condition of some young men, who have been strangely affected by Cupid that arrived in the first symptoms seemed to have appeared when there was such a rush to the Post Office for letters on St. Valentine's day.

The spring work has fairly commenced although there is still much snow on the hills.

We have had beautiful weather for the last week, warm, and much like June in April. The roads are dry and up fast.

The first thunder storm of the season took place last Monday.

We understand that several new residences are to be erected this season so that our contractors will have their hands full.

BELLEVILLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

To-day navigation may be said to have fairly opened. Early in the morning the Ferrara came steaming in from Trenton with Capt. Forte in charge. The Captain seems to have wintered well and he comes out with an entire new stock of stories which he tells with an inimitable flip and drolery.

The Arcturion was at the Quinze's place, until the repairs on the latter are completed, paid her first visit this forenoon.

Expectation is high in regard to what the Quinze is in her new rig. She always (has been a popular boat but "they say" that in her new spring rig she will be more of a favorite than ever and will be the "Belle of the Bay."

Building is to be quite active in Belleville the coming season. The Methodists and the Roman Catholics are each to build a tin Church Edifice. The Salvation Army build a neat and substantial structure for their barracks on Pinnacle Street. Aside from these buildings a considerable number of private residences are to be erected. It is hoped that hard weather has not reached a turning point and that hereafter the road will lead toward greater prosperity.

The Mechanics Institute had no little difficulty in getting an appropriation for this city this year but at last succeeded in getting $200 by a divided council. There seems to be an impression (whether just or otherwise) that the Institute, instead of being what it was designed to be, has come to be a high toned club room, and although it is called a "Mechanics" Institute yet its mechanic is not wanted there and if he does venture in he is soon frozen out. The friends of the Institute should correct this impression. If a reform is needed it should begin at once, otherwise its days are numbered.

The early winter weather is most acceptable. In the flooded district where a week ago the ice was two and three feet thick in and around the houses now it has all gone and new life animates the places that have for months been desolate and dead.

Many a family in Belleville will long remember to the terror of the winter of 1885 when they were driven from their homes by the merciless waters. There has been great suffering and damage to property and it is not been for the untiring efforts of the Women's Christian Association and the generous responses of the people to the appeals for their sympathy the suffering would have been frightful to contemplate.

Occasionally there are stormy scenes in the Council Chamber of our City Fathers. Mayor Melnick provides with much fairness and ability, but there are times when he has his hands more than full. Alderman Diamond likes to hold the reins and drive, but Alderman Falkner never was broke, to drive well and he frequently kicks out of the traces. The other Aldermen are not averse to a general melee, and so now and again, the proceedings, "the council" are characterized by a terrible stir of words. The stones and mud fly around as wildly as thrown from getting guns instead of from the mouths of aldermen. All charges and then there is a full in the battle, the sun of peace shines out once more; the dead are buried; the wounds are bound up; the great council moves on and administers the affairs of the city with as much wisdom and dignified decorum as though it had never made a great fun for the boys.

LONSDALE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Jas. Whiteman had a horse taken from his barn again on Wednesday night, 14th inst.; after much searching it was found at a neighbour's barnyard about two miles west of here. Mr. Whiteman has been much annoyed by roughs taking horses from his stable at night, riding and leaving them a long distance from home; stopping in his barn over night to sober up, stealing poultry, etc. We hope the guilty parties will soon be caught and brought to justice.

Daniel Mabce caught a lad, a son of Jas. Beverstock, in his potato pit filling a bag a few days ago and the mother watching at the fence to help her son to carry the bag home. He says about fifteen bushels have been taken, and a short time since he caught the same lad, with a nice piece of pork weighing about 125 pounds, which he had taken from his barrel. Mr. Mabce says all his fowls at one time have been taken; as he cannot persuade them to stop stealing he thinks he will get Chief McKinnon to take it in hand.

A golden wedding was held at Mr. Wm. McMurray's in the 3th con. of Tyendinaga a few days ago, the aged couple having been married 51 years. They have seven children living, two sons and five daughters, all having large families and all were present except one son. The sons-in-law are Thomas Kelly, Ervin Ray, John Robinson, David and Thomas Winters. A chairman was chosen after which a portion of Scripture was read and prayer by David Winters.

Considerable speeches and each presented the aged parents with five dollars together with a quantity of provisions, etc., after having a very pleasant meeting and visit together they returned to their respective homes.

Considering the bad state of the roads leading to our village our Merchants and Mechanics have a lively time supplying the wants of the throng of customers continually pressing in.

We noticed on the premises of John O'Brien carriage maker on Saturday forenoon sixteen horses to be shod, a large number of farming implements to be repaired, and orders for wagons and other work were being in until a late hour of the day.

Mr. Robert Winters tells me he made a pair of new kip boots (he says he made) did $2.30 worth of repairing, walked to Kingston, rented his land there and returned home on foot just before sunset on Saturday making five miles of a walk. This is one instance of how our mechanics push business; who can beat it?

A Sunday School has just been started here in the Methodist Church with a good attendance, our miller, Mr. Howell, being superintendent, and the school teacher, J. T. Hoppe.

The Sugar Social for the benefit of said school was well patronized, considering the late state of the roads and darkness of the night. All enjoyed themselves immensely. Mr. Radner very ably filled the chair. The programme was lengthy each doing their part amply, forty pounds of sugar consumed and the best of satisfaction given financially. Our quiet village was greatly annoyed on Sunday last by some men who are heads of families shooting and spraying fish at the bridge and attracting a crowd of young men and boys to witness the destruction of the day. We do not mention names, but hope such immoral conduct and violation of the law, which should be punished, will not occur again.

LONSDALE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Tuesday last about midnight, our village was awakened by the sound of the School bell, and all rushed from their beds to see what was the matter. It was found to be a marriage bell, intended to call a party together for a charivari which proved a mere fizzle, but perhaps, it put something in the heads of the boys.

Mr. Asa Abbott and Miss Dault, cousin to Dr. Redner, both of Lonsdale, took a drive to Shannonville, it being a very pleasant afternoon; they obtained a license and called on the Rev. Mr. Palmer, Methodist Minister, at the parsonage and were joined in wedlock, to travel in double harness together through life's journey.

Asa was hit the best of health when they returned, but the shock and driving over rails, etc., put in the road so affected him that he is still under the Doctor's care this Wednesday a. m. There is good hope of his recovery, but he will then have a long, and prosperous life, and no troubles but little ones.

Mr. John E. Sessmith is very low, and is a considerable drag on Tuesday, but recovered again.

TYENDINAGA RESERVE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The annual vestry meeting for the 4th con. of Tyendinaga was held at the Church on Monday, the 20th inst. (Easter Monday) at 11 o'clock a. m. From the Canon of 1885 passed in the eighteenth session of the Diocese of Ontario it was resolved that members of vestry in free churches pitch as those on the reserves. In churches in which the pew is free there shall be a vestry for the purpose of this canon mentioned and declared, and the members thereof shall be the members of the church.

Each member shall declare himself in writing at the meeting, in a book to be registered for the purpose, to be attending the church of England, and in other religious body, and to be habitually attending public worship in some church of which the vestry is held for the space of six months previous to the meeting of the vestry.

FOURTH CONCESSION TYENDINAGA.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Wm. Ward, of Melrose, has had another offer for his tavern stand; they seem to be in better demand and realize a better price than our vacant churches.

Mr. Thomas Jordan has purchased a fine residence in Melrose fronting on Main-st., centre of the village, formerly owned by Edward Hollingsworth, Esq.; it has a never failing spring of water in the cellar.

Our Melrose cheese factory will commence on Monday, May 3rd. Mr. James Kinney and Mr. Hiram Fairman are the cheese-makers; there is no discount on either of them.

The young men around Melrose seem to have a great fancy for shoemakers' daughters; I do not blame them for that, but if they think they will get their wives sold free after marriage, they will get disappointed badly, for I tried that and had to pay the old man for every patch.

Our Township Council met at the Town Hall, Melrose, on the last Tuesday of this month to transact business for the township; part of it will be the small-pox bill from the Indian Reserve; it will not take long discussing that part, as I understand it is very reasonable, and having only one patient at present, it is well for the county if all the doctors were as thoughtful.

They have ground eighteen hundred bags of grain at Tripp's mill, but he is getting very uneasy about disappointing his customers next fall as he would like to go out to try his new mill.

Mr. Charlie Mowerson sent to Toronto for a new rifle, a Winchester at that; on the following morning he was up before the sun in order to try his rifle; forty rods from where he stood he saw a crow and shot both of its eyes out. Now, Mr. Editor, would not that man and rifle have been better in the Northwest than General Middleton's army? But he is too useful a man to part with, for instance:

He can reap and sow,
He can reap and mow;
He can make a clock and set her up,
And make her run so true.
He can fiddle well,
And make a cheese;
He is good at shooting deer.
He can grind and take the toll.
He will eat Englehorn.

Robert McConnell has purchased a new dog cart; it must have cost a great deal as there are a great many of such carts in the town.

Mrs. Grant is making a praiseworthy use of the $200,000 paid her as the first installment of her profits on the sale of her husband's book. Last week she sent to Gen. Grant's unfortunate connection with the ex-soldier Ward, who she has paid off.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Good Friday.

SERVICES were held to-day in St. Mark's Church at 10 a.m.
Site of Japan Tea for $100 at The Big Store.
To-morrow is the anniversary of the battle of Fish Creek.

THE Armenia broke her wheel at Trenton on Tuesday.
Work on the trestle dock structure is proceeding apace.

MR. JAS. CAMERON has placed two lying posts in front of the Central Depot.
The venerable old cow, Frank Smith will rail no more. She has been broken up for firewood.

The lighthouse first cast its gleaming rays across the waves of the bay on Saturday night.
COUNTERFEIT fifty cent pieces and two dollar Dominion notes are in circulation. Look out for them.

THE McConnell farm on the Deseronto road was recently sold by auction at Napanee to Mr. Birrell for the sum of $4,330.

The shingle department of the Cedar Mill was shut down on Wednesday owing to a break in the shaft.

A Service of Song will be held in the Church of the Redeemer next Sunday evening. All—especially non-churchgoers—are cordially invited to attend on the occasion.

THE Presbyterian Sunday School repeated their concert on Tuesday evening, the children performing their parts in a manner reflecting much credit on their instructors.

MR. HUGO B. SHERWOOD, Superintendent of the Napanee, Tamworth and Quebec Railroad was in town on Friday last on business in connection with the road.

MR. A. HOPKINS, agent of the Rathbun Company, at Kingston, is building a model house in Kingston. The plastering will be laid on Mr. Hopkins' new style of lath, for the manufacture of which he has taken out a patent.

AN excavation has been made and tracks are being laid down by which the refuse and other material from the mill and engine room department of the Big Mill, can be removed by rail instead of by horses as heretofore.

MR. JOHN CRICKET's hens are not to have everything their own way in the production of colorful eggs. A duck owned by Mr. Wm. Martin has earned for itself a place in our columns and therefore of fame, by laying an egg which measures 8 1/2 by 6 1/2 inches.

SEVERAL of our aquatic sportsmen are accustomed on Sunday to practice in their boats just off the lower end as they run the risk of being arrested by the Chief, and as their conduct wounds the religious sensibilities of very many of our people, it is better for all concerned that this reprehensible practice should cease in future.

MR. JOHN McCULLOUGH was in Toronto on Tuesday attending the annual meeting of the First Insurance Association of which he is a member. Mr. McCullough was subsequently elected one of the Executive Committee. Mr. McCullough accompanied him to the city.

THE Assizes will commence in Belleville on Monday next. The historic case of Rowe and others against the Napanee, Tamworth & Quebec Railroad has been set for trial. Subpoenas and witness fees are lying about town in prodigious quantities so that the department in the money market has been quite relieved.

MESSRS. WALMSLEY & SPAFFORD are continually adding to their large stock of tea, coffee, and all kinds of groceries. On Tuesday, the steamer Nipigon arrived at Belleville with a large cargo for this firm, which can offer bargains not to be had elsewhere in Deseronto. One call will convince the most sceptical on that point.

MR. A. E. GRACEY, having accepted a responsible position in the establishment of Messrs. Wright & Boyle, of Oswego, sailed for that city in the Queen's last Tuesday evening. He is accompanied by Mr. D. H. Brewer who takes a place in the same shops. In common with all our readers we regret the departure of two such worthy residents of our town.

ABOUT seventy volumes have been read, learned and carefully digested by the members of the Mechanics' Institute during the past three months. It is gratifying to know that the library has been so well appreciated and that the taste for reading has been generated which must greatly increase the intelligence of a community already considered to be so enterprising and self-advanced by people in other parts of the district.

MR. IRVINE Sterling, of Newburgh, was the victim of a very serious accident on Monday morning. While working at a match in the ash shop, when being ignorant of the fact that the knives below the table were in motion, he placed his hand directly on them. His hand was fearfully lacerated in consequence. Dr. Newton attended the injuries and hopes that with great care he may yet render amputation of the hand unnecessary.

Chief Gunyon and Mrs. Roy Bowen had a difference of opinion on the streets on Monday last. For a time the battle, waged with equal success, our Constable being stronger in muscular development but very inferior in oratorical powers. A protesting invitation to the cooler was at first positively refused by the lady who brandished a "Sally Clump" under her "blond" hair, but the chief became so pressing in his attentions that the fair one was fain to submit and the pair proceeded lovingly to the town hall where the fracas terminated without bloodshed.

THE Assizes open at Belleville on the 23rd inst.

The best tea in the market is found at Walmsley & Spafford's. Smith's brick block.

MR. S. NORRIS and family are returning to their old home in Fenton.

LOONDALE is coming to the front as a busy enterprising village.

New Stock of Prints just to hand don't fail to give us a call—The Big Store.

It is predicted that butcher will be sold in a few weeks at 12 cts. per pound.

OUR Manitoba correspondent again favors the readers of THE TRIBUNE with one of his highly interesting letters.

Rev. D. O. CROSBY will deliver one of his popular song-sermons on the evening of Sunday, May 2nd.

A large addition is being made to the list of books in the library of the Methodist Sunday School.

Craig Lodge, A. F. & A. M., will have their new lodge-room on the second floor of the Goodmury block. It will be both spacious and commodious.

The inspired church social will soon give place to the social with accuracy with attendant ice-cream, roasted peanuts, and "music will be provided."

MR. T. BUTLER commenced sewing barley on his farm in Richmond on Tuesday. Mr. Butler is probably the first in the district to commence seedling operations.

By wise in time and purchase your ticket for the "moonlight sail," under the auspices of the Rathbun Company Band, on the evening of the Queen's birthday.

MR. C. W. PALMER intends continuing his present agency business and will remove with his family to Toronto, which he makes his headquarters. All will regret the loss of such estimable citizens.

The merchants who erect awnings over their shops are much annoyed by the presence of a number of loafers who are wont to shelter themselves in these cool retreats and thus prove themselves an unutterable nuisance.

THERE is a young lady in this city, who thinks herself just awfully pretty, and knows lots of songs and could sing 'em; but couldn't mend shoes, and wouldn't wash clothes, nor help her old mother to wring 'em.

JOHN McCULLOUGH, Esq., Assessor for Deseronto, is at present busy making up his roll for the current year. The duties of his office involve no small amount of labor and care, each year finding some additional statistics to be collected and recorded.

THE Grand Trunk authorities have agreed to lower the rate of freights between Kingston and points as far east as Cornwall and as far west as Ottawa. This will be a great advantage to the wholesale merchants of Kingston.

MR. JAMES BOUTH, contractor, though delayed for a day or two on account of want of time, is making splendidly rapid progress with the new Goodmury block. The new structure will be a credit to the town as well as to the enterprise of the owner.

PART of the covering of the large tank on Centre-street, near Mrs. Bernier's residence, gave way last Saturday leaving a chasm about eight feet square. The corporation has had it repaired and the structure strengthened, so as to improve it to its former condition in case of fire.

THE monster show of Easter meats at Carter's stalls will attract an immense rush of visitors to-day. No-to-morrow, the stalls have such a display of beef made in Deseronto, and people are showing their appreciation of Mr. Carter's enterprise by leaving their seats to go to the stalls.

MR. JAMES BUTLER has been making several improvements on his hair dressing studio. He has given it a new name, and has put in a fine new window, and painted the whole premises. He has now an elegant parlor which will attract even a larger number of customers than before.

REVEREND J. F. FRASER, who has during the past year been in charge of the Church of England congregation at Shannonville, has resigned that charge to accept the parish of Chatham, to which he has been appointed by his Lordship, the Bishop of Ontario.

MR. JAMES BUTLER has been making several improvements on his hair dressing studio. He has given it a new name, and has put in a fine new window, and painted the whole premises. He has now an elegant parlor which will attract even a larger number of customers than before.

HAMS, Bacon, Lard, Boneless Pig Pork, &c., at The Big Store.

There is considerable stir in aquatic circles over a bet of a novel character between Messrs. Marshall Woodcock and Thos. Mallory. The former vagers that he can stand up in the water for 22 feet without getting across the bay. If he wins he will have accomplished a difficult feat.

A number of boys and young men are wont to assemble in the Sunday evenings in the vicinity of St. Mark's Church and by their noisy unseemly conduct greatly annoy the large congregation of worshippers. Last Sunday evening their conduct was especially objectionable. It is to be hoped the offenders will take warning before stern remedies are resorted to.

THE steam barge Nipigon was also up on the marine railway all winter. She has been practically rebuilt having received new frames, covering boards, rails, ceilings, &c. She was launched on Wednesday and with her consort the barges Iola and Bedford which have been overhauled will soon be in commission. She will be again commanded by Capt. W. J. Daly.

The Minister of Customs has kindly given leave of absence for two months to T. G. Pile, Esq., Collector at this port. These are the first holidays Mr. Pile has ever taken since his entrance on the position. We hope he will enjoy his well earned vacation and return to his duties with much improved health. T. H. Nasimith, Esq., has been appointed by the Department to act as collector during Mr. Pile's absence.

The public will receive with genuine gratification the announcement that the Directors of the Mechanics' Institute have arranged for a Grand Concert to be given by the famous and elegant Family in the Presbyterian Sunday School room on Thursday May 6th. The singing of this gifted company everywhere has been a source of satisfaction and the people of Deseronto will show their appreciation by giving their best patronage.

THE Hero arrived in port on Tuesday all bright and gay with colours flying. She had encountered some ice which had scraped off some paint. She is again under command of that popular officer, Capt. Nicholson, a sufficient guarantee that nothing will be left undone to promote the comfort of passengers and to maintain the reputation of the Hero as the most popular steamer on the Bay of Quinte.

CUTTING GLASS WITH SCISSORS.

Many persons may not be aware that glass can be cut under water, with greatest ease, to almost any shape, by simply using a pair of sharp or strong scissors. In order to insure success, two points must be attended to—first, and most important, the glass must be kept quite level in the water while the scissors are applied; and, secondly, to avoid risk, it is better to begin the cutting by taking small pieces at the corners and along the edges, and to reduce the shape gradually to that required, for if any attempt is made to cut the glass to the shape, as we would cut a piece of cardboard it will be most likely to break like where it is not wanted. Some kinds of glass cut much better than others; the softer glass is the best for this purpose. The scissors need to be kept on the same side, and the edge presented to the glass. When the operation goes on well the glass breaks away from the scissors in small pieces in a straight line with the blades. This method of cutting glass has often been of service, when a dimond has not been at hand, for cutting ovals and segments, and though the edges are not as smooth as might be desired for some purposes, it will answer in many cases. The two hints given above, if strictly followed will always insure success.

LIVE STOCK NOTES FOR MAY.

May is a critical month with farm animals. They are, over a great part of the country, going "from hay to grass" and are liable to be affected by the debilitating influence of the succulent and loosening food.
The only way to prevent evil effects is to give hay and grain in the morning and evening at first, continuing the hay ration of hay longer than that of the evening, until the grass gradually gains in nutritive value after the animals have been habituated to it. This is equally important for horses, cows and sheep. Horses that are not put to hard work are not usually harmed by grass; the "clever" ones do them good.
Brood mares, however, need more substantial feed. Work horses or oxen, should be fed well from ground and sprouted upon hopped rye. Fresh cows generally do very well if they calve within a month after being turned to grass. There will be little event at first, continuing the hay ration incident to a feverish condition, but large milkers will need feed the second week or they will run down this. American Agriculturalist for May.

The Scotch are proverbially a thrifty race. A short time ago the traveller of well-known wholesale house in London called on a Glasgow trader for the usual an-

An attempt was made to interview Big Bear, but the crestfallen old Indian refused to talk. So alarmingly prevalent are those chronic diseases peculiar to females, and so famous have our institutions become for their cure that we were long ago obliged to create a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted to the treatment of these cases. The physicians and surgeons in this Department devote their sole study to the treatment of these delicate diseases their sole study. We have brought to our institutions from far distant States to go home well and strong. Every case consulted by our practice or by personal acquaintance and considered affords an important case which have not already baffled the skill of all the the appliances of the "Invalide" Hotel and Surgical Institute, yet the specialists at the Institute are well equipped with the latest apparatus. The Institute abounds in skill, facilities, and apparatus for the successful treatment of every form of chronic ailment, whether requiring for its cure medical or surgical means.
